BLAMES LABOR ACT, NLRB FOR STRIKE WAVE

Republic Steel President Says Wagner Law Responsible for Plant Seizures.

BLASTS AT 'UNFAIRNESS'

Probers Hear of Attempt by Company to Sway Editorial Opinion of Newspapers.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(AP)—Senate investigators heard today that six steel companies engaged a public relations firm last July to make a study of industrial relations, including the CIO, its leadership, its methods, its philosophy and the nature of its support by communists."

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Officials of the Republic Steel Corporation upheld the company's labor policies today in testimony before the senate civil liberties committee.

R. J. Wysor of Cleveland, president of the concern, was called back to the witness stand after testifying yesterday that for years Republic had had "a satisfactory bargaining arrangement with our employes."

Urges 'Fair Law.'

He insisted that collective bargaining must be placed on a basis of "mutual benefit for the employer and employe" and not conducted "for the purpose of regimenting employes and driving them into unions."

Criticizing the Wagner act and the National Labor Relations board, Wysor blamed them for an "unprecedented wave of strikes, seizure of plants and breakdown of law enforcement." He urged amendment of the labor act to "make it a fair law."

The committee offered evidence yesterday to show that the Republic company made unsuccessful attempts last year to influence editorial opinion in Birmingham, Ala., newspapers.

Chairman LaFollette (Prog-Wis), put into the record three letters written to Wysor by Wade H. Oldham and Kenneth D. Mann, Republic officials in 1937.

Refers to 'Radicals.'

Oldham wrote that he found James Chappell, president and general manager of the Birmingham Age-Herald and News, and Jimmie Mills, editor of the Birmingham Post, "radically inclined."

"However," he wrote, "the Birmingham Post has been considerably less radical since the supreme court bill came into the picture and I believe, unquestionably, there is a turn for the better in both papers."

Mann gave the names of citizens he said he believed carried "personal influence" with Victor Hanson, publisher of the Age-Herald and News, and urged that they be persuaded to use their influence with him.

Oldham wrote that a committee called on Hanson, but he added, "I can not see that this did any good, however."

Asks County For Funds To Assist Needy War Vets

With its 1938 appropriation already exhausted, the Richland County Soldiers' Relief commission appealed today to the county commissioners for relief funds for the remainder of the year.

The commission, which administers direct aid to disabled and unemployed veterans and their families, has been swamped with requests for help, Miss Della Cochran, secretary of the commission, said today, and approximately $9,500 already has been spent.

County commissioners, who were to meet with commission members this afternoon at the courthouse, said they would "do what we can" but added that they have little money available for relief purposes.

The soldiers' relief commission received an appropriation of $9,500 from the county this year, the same as in 1937, but the relief demands have increased during recent months, Miss Cochran said. More than 400 persons have been helped so far this year, she added.

The commission spent about $10,000 for relief purposes last year.

RAIN COOLS CITY

Shower Sends Mercury Down To 70 After High Of 91 Wednesday.

A brisk shower sent Mansfielders scurrying for shelter about 1:15 p. m. today and dropped the temperature 12 degrees to a comfortable 70 in a few minutes.

The weatherman, however, forecast clear skies tonight and Friday, with little change in temperature.

After climbing to 91 degrees yesterday afternoon, one of the highest marks of the summer, the mercury dropped to 65 early today. By noon it had gone up to 82. Average for the past 24 hours was 78, two degrees above normal.

One Of Strike Clash Victims

Quiet prevailed in Newton, Ia., today while national guardsmen patroled the strike-bound plant of the Maytag Washing Machine company where union employes and a "back-to-work" crew clashed yesterday in a pitched battle, most serious since CIO unionists went on strike in protest over a 10 per cent wage cut. The above photo shows one of the riot victims receiving aid after 250 guardsmen quelled the disturbance.

Hughes, Aids On World Flight Go To Capital Today

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The nation's capital prepared to pay homage today to Howard Hughes and his four companions who added a new page to aviation history with their record-shattering 'round-the-world flight.

The Hughes party will be received by Secretary of State Hull shortly before noon. Following this, the millionaire airman and his twelve-man delegation will sit as honor guests at a luncheon tendered by the National Press club. Hughes is to make a short address at the luncheon, which will be broadcast over a nation-wide hook-up.

In the evening, the party will attend a dinner at the Soviet embassy. This affair is being given by Constantine Oumanski, the embassy's charge-d'affaires. Oumanski handled part of the arrangements made by the Soviet government to facilitate the Hughes flight.

More than 100 government officials will be present at the press luncheon.

DIES OF BURNS

Widow, 73, Victim of Oil Stove Blast Near New London.

NEW LONDON—Fatally burned when an oil stove exploded shortly after noon Wednesday at the home of John Walker in nearby Ruggles, Mrs. Ella Coy, 73, a widow, died a short time later in the New London hospital.

Walker, who is blind, suffered burns on his hands and arms when he carried Mrs. Coy from the blazing home through a window. She kept house for Walker.

Neighbors extinguished the fire which spread over the kitchen of the home after the explosion. The house, however, was badly damaged by the flames. Walker was treated at the New London hospital and released.

Mrs. Coy is survived by a son, Calvin Coy, and a daughter, Mrs. Homer Heustin, both of Ruggles.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at the home of her son. Burial will be in the North Fairfield cemetery.

INSULL'S RITES MAPPED

PARIS—(AP)—The body of Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities magnate who died Saturday, will be sent to London tomorrow for burial either tomorrow or Saturday in the Putney Vale cemetery.

GUARDSMEN GET ORDERS TO FIRE

Armed Troops Patrol Maytag Plant After Battle at Company's Gates.

(By United Press)

NEWTON, Ia.—National guardsmen, with orders to use machine guns or bayonets if necessary, maintained peace in strike-torn Newton today as the Maytag Washing Machine company plant remained closed under gubernatorial edict. Strict martial law prevailed.

Steel-helmeted troops banned all assemblages in this industrial community of 11,000 persons.

The state liquor store was closed. Beer taverns were not affected.

A five-man military commission, superceding courts and other civil authority, took command of all law enforcement activity in the city and "adjacent territory." The military court prepared to investigate a clash early yesterday between members of a "back-to-work" movement and a picket line around the plant.

Major General Mathew Tinley, in charge of militia, threatened to suspend all activities, except those necessary to maintain life, if there was a repetition of yesterday's violence.

A skeleton force of 20 guardsmen with fixed bayonets stood guard on the Maytag property, ready to prevent any attempt at entry.

As result of yesterday's disorders, Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel ordered the plant closed "until the peace of Newton is guaranteed." There was no indication when the labor dispute that has raged for 11 weeks would be settled.

At least 30 persons were slugged, kicked and beaten in a battle that raged for an hour before guardsmen finally arrived at the scene yesterday and restored order.

5 JEWS SLAIN

Bombs Explode In New Holy Land Disorders.

JERUSALEM—(INS)—In one of the most furious attacks of the long Arab-Jewish strife, with incendiary bombs brought into play, five members of the Jewish community at Kiriat Haroshat, near Haifa, were killed early today.

Attacking the settlement in the night, the rebel band threw bombs among its flimsy wooden buildings in an attempt to set them ablaze.

Corrigan Buys a Shillelagh And Books Passage For Home

(By Associated Press)

DUBLIN — The "Pride of the Corrigans," as the Irish call the young American flying hero, booked passage home today on the American liner Manhattan, sailing next week.

That done, Douglas Corrigan went shopping as any tourist. For his uncle he bought a shillelagh (typical cudgel) and for the rest of the family, postcards.

He planned a two-day visit to London before sailing from Cobh July 30.

"I am still battling with the task of answering hundreds of cablegrams people keep sending me," the aviator said.

"I am still holding off on offers of contracts from Hollywood until I get home, but it's nix on night club appearances. I'm no crooner."

Asked about the possibility of a flight across the United States for the Golden Gate exposition, he said, "My uncle must have fixed that up—it depends on United States authorities whether they release my plane. I am very doubtful if they will."

Today he turned down a five-year film contract with a guarantee of three pictures yearly—although yesterday he thought he might be interested in the movies—and refused a $20,000 vaudeville contract.

The main problem yet undecided was what ship to take home—five steamship lines have offered passage for him and his $900 plane.

6 MORE DAYS AND 'BIGGEST' FAIR OPENS

Banner Attractions Arranged for Richland Exposition, First in State in '38.

RACING ENTRIES SOAR

200 Horses Expected for 3-Day Program; $4,500 Will Be Awarded in Premiums.

Booming reports from a half dozen aerial bombs will rock Mansfield just six days hence when the Richland county fair board signals the opening of its 1938 agricultural exposition—the first county fair in Ohio this year.

The board believes that, barring adverse weather—an enemy battled for the last two years—that Mansfield residents and Richland county farm folk will see the results of an intensive effort to make the 1938 event "bigger and better than ever."

Variety Of Attractions.

Here are a few of the bannerline attractions through which the board hopes to make the fair a success financially and a venture to keep younger farmers interested in agriculture:

1—A three-day harness racing program which, because of the early fair dates, has drawn upwards of 200 entries from Grand Circuit and Ohio Short ship stables. More than 100 trotters and pacers are stabled there, a week in advance of the fair.

2—A display of livestock, farm produce and 4-H club work that promises to be the best ever. Farm youngsters and veteran agriculturists have a $4,500 target to shoot at in the form of cash premiums for their efforts in raising "blueblood" livestock and super-quality crops.

Daredevils On Program.

3—Entertainment of state fair caliber. Augmenting the racing program will be a daredevil show replete with thrills by automobile and motorcycle drivers who perform hazardous stunts with their vehicles. A vaudeville show with a cast of dancers, acrobats and other entertainers will show on two nights.

The fair opens next Wednesday and continues through Friday night, with well-rounded programs for both day and night performances.

JAPS ANGRY

New Soviet 'Invasion' Stirs Tokyo; Plan 'Final Warning.'

TOKYO —(INS)— A new alleged Soviet invasion of Manchukuo territory near Manchuli aroused Japanese temper to white heat today as the Nipponese government planned a final warning to the "invaders."

An official Japanese news agency dispatch from Hsinking, capital of Manchukuo, said five Soviet soldiers approached the border in the vicinity of Szetashan, 20 miles from Manchuli. Two of them crossed the frontier, penetrating to a depth of 500 yards and firing on Manchukuo border patrols.

The latter returned the fire and one of the Russians was captured. Manchukuo immediately lodged a stiff protest over the incident with the Soviet consul at Harbin.

CINCY'S READY

Flags Go Up as City Prepares for Legion Convention.

CINCINNATI — (AP) — The red, white and blue bunting and a promise of "never a dull moment" went up today as a greeting to the Legionnaires arriving for the annual state convention opening Saturday.

Starting with a parade and jamboree of the 40 and 8, fun group of the Legion, the opening day, the convention will be closed Tuesday with the selection of officers and the site for next year's conclave.

PLUNGE FATAL

Ohioan Killed By Dive Into Shallow Lake.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y.—(UP)—James Reed Morris III, 35, of Perrysburg, O., died in General hospital early today of injuries received when he dived into shallow water of Chautauqua lake. Morris, son of Dr. F. B. Morris of Pittsburgh, suffered a fractured neck vertebra. He is survived by his widow, two daughters, Betty and Lynn, and son, James Reed Morris IV.

What to Do About Your Hay Fever

The Ker-chooing Mr. X Gets Some Hope From Doctor.

(Mr. X, who has sneezed and wheezed his way through many summers of hay fever, asks Dr. Iago Galdston, whose health articles appear occasionally in The News-Journal, for some enlightenment and advice.)

(By The AP Feature Service)

Mr. X: Doctor, I think Ive got hay fever.

Dr. G: What makes you think so?

Mr. X (reaching for handkerchief: Well, my nose is stuffed up and keeps on running, my eyes itch—kerchoo!—I sneeze all the time, and I get this way every summer.

Dr. G: That sounds like a correct diagnosis of hay fever.

Mr. X: Then can you tell me how I get this way, and what I can do about it?

It's Simple—Ahem!

Dr. G: As to why you get this way, the answer is simple—you are allergic. Now, don't get scared. Allergic simply means that you're hypersensitive—that is, you overreact—to one or more protein substances. In your case it's pollen, the male reproductive cells of plants. The ones that float through the air do the damage. You breathe them in and they land on the membranes lining your nose, throat and lung passages. They get in your eyes, too. These pollens disintegrate and get absorbed, causing—in allergic persons—the symptoms you have.

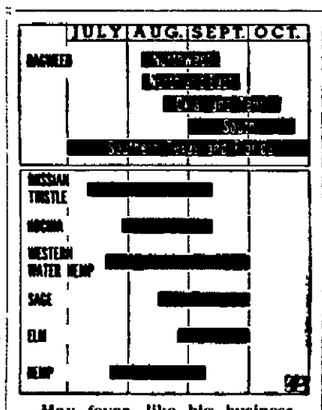
Mr. X: These pollens are pretty small, eh?

Dr. G: They're microscopic.

Look In Your Yard.

Mr. X: Well, what's the ah-ah—ker choo!—commonest cause?

Dr. G: The pollens of the ragweed family. All ragweed should be destroyed. Here's what the common variety looks like:



Hay fever, like big business, has seasons. This chart, from "Your Hay Fever" (Bobbs-Merrill), shows the peaks. To the right is the chief villain—the common ragweed.

Mr. X: Why, we've got some in our backyard!

Dr. G: Better get it pulled out.

Mr. X (blowing his nose): I suppose a lot of people must get hay fever?

Dr. G: About two and a half million Americans do—that's between 3 and 4 per cent of the population. And they ought to do something about it because almost 65 per cent of the hay fever-ites finally get asthma. It's a big problem.

There Are Reasons.

Mr. X: I don't suppose they all get it at the same time?

Dr. G: No. There is roughly a spring and fall hay fever season.

Mr. X: Well, what should I do about it?

Dr. G: You can ask your doctor for a desensitization treatment. They've been developing it for the last 25 years and now it gives relief to a great many hay fever sufferers. Your doctor will inject into you a series of increasing doses of extracts of the pollens to which you're sensitive. The treatment should be started before the hay fever season comes on.

Mr. X: Will these injections cure me?

Some Are Cured.

Dr. G: A fair number of cases are cured after two or three courses of this treatment. Some, I'm sorry to say, it doesn't help.

Mr. X: Is there any other treatment?

Dr. G: No serums or anti-toxins, if that's what you mean. But your doctor can use certain drugs to relieve your symptoms.

Mr. X: Well, I'm glad it isn't hopeless. . . . I'm afraid Junior's getting it, too.

Dr. G: He is likely to. Children of allergic parents are more liable to allergic disturbances, like hay fever.

Mr. X (sneezing lustily): Well, thanks, Doctor. I'm going home and have some non-sneezing fellow pull out that ragweed. Then I'll round up Junior and go to our doctor.

Political Tempo Quickens, Bulkley Visits City Friday

Senator to Confer With County Leaders at Luncheon; Ashbrook Guest at Two Picnics Here.

With the primary drawing closer, the political tempo quickened today in Richland county and indications were that candidates for most of the major state and district offices would visit Mansfield before the city goes to the polls Aug. 9.

Tomorrow U. S. Senator Robert J. Bulkley of Cleveland, seeking renomination on the Democratic ticket, will appear here. Bulkley's visit will follow close on the heels of Charles Sawyer's campaigning Tuesday.

Congressman William A. Ashbrook, Democratic incumbent from the 17th district, was in the city yesterday and visited two picnics. In the afternoon he was a guest at the annual fish fry of the Fifth Ward Democratic club at Spiker's grove. Last night he visited the Elks picnic at Winskey's grove.

G. O. P. Rally Aug. 3.

The primary campaign will be climaxed Aug. 3 when leading Republican candidates speak at a Mansfield rally.

Senator Bulkley will stop here tomorrow for luncheon at the

SALES EXPERT SPEAKS TONIGHT

Detroit Man to Discuss Drive to Stimulate Business.

Ralph G. Cameron, Detroit household sales manager of a nationally known industrial concern, will be the speaker tonight when sales people and employers meet at the American Legion home for the opening of the drive which precedes Mansfield's "Sales Mean Jobs" campaign.

Cameron, one of the originators of the plan to stimulate business, will tell how it has worked in other cities and what the results have been. After the public meeting he will hold a conference with the planning committee and discuss plans for the Mansfield campaign which opens Aug. 1.

A planning committee of about 90 business men was named yesterday to map out the campaign.

HIT BY STORM

Tiffin County Loss From Wind, Rain and Hail.

TIFFIN —(UP)— Heavy damage was reported today from a wind, hail and rain storm in this section during the night. Several buildings were unroofed on the Rufus Chaney, George Hunker and Swartzmiller farms north of here.

Growing corn was damaged by the hail. Electric service in one part of Tiffin was impared when trees were blown down.

FARMER KILLED

Shreve Man, 73, Dies in Auto Crash Near Loudonville.

LOUDONVILLE—Warren Wise, 73, farmer of near Shreve, was instantly killed and two other persons were injured, one seriously, when two automobiles collided at 6 p. m. Wednesday on route 3, seven miles east of Loudonville.

Wise, driver of one of the cars, drove out of a side road onto the highway where his automobile was struck by another operated by John Hanafin, 50, of Akron, who was critically injured, officers said.

Mrs. Wise, who was riding with her husband, suffered head lacerations and was treated at Wooster City hospital. Hanafin, who received a crushed chest and internal injuries, was taken to the same hospital where his condition was reported as critical.

The body of Mr. Wise was removed to the Morgan funeral home in Shreve.

Ship Travels at Average Speed of 145 Miles an Hour; Hits Fog, Rain Squalls.

BULLETIN

MONTREAL — (Canadian Press—The British pick-a-back seaplane Mercury took off at 1 p. m. (EST) today for New York from Boucherville air harbor, where she arrived this morning on the first trans-Atlantic flight for a plane of her type.

(By Canadian Press)

MONTREAL — The first trans-Atlantic flight of a pick-a-back plane ended here at 10:20 a. m. (EST) today when the British seaplane Mercury alighted on the St. Lawrence river near Montreal.

The Mercury glided to a smooth landing in the Boucherville air harbor 20 hours 20 minutes after leaving Foynes, Ireland, 2,715 miles away, where she had been launched by her mother ship, the Maia.

Ocean for 2,000 Miles.

Some 2,000 miles of her route had traversed the North Atlantic and she came on to Montreal without making her expected stop at Botwood, Newfoundland.

Boucherville is 12 miles east of Montreal.

Completing the first of eight scheduled experimental flights to Canada this year, the silvery seaplane cut her engines and coasted into an area of the harbor marked off by buoys.

A flag decked yacht steamed out into the river to greet Capt. Donald Bennett and Wireless Operator Albert Coster, the Mercury's crew of two.

The Mercury was to unload part of her 1,000-pound cargo here and then take off for New York after replenishing her fuel tanks.

The Atlantic crossing was accomplished at 3:29 a. m. (EST), when the Mercury, 13 hours 29

CHILD FALLS 2 STORIES, LIVES

Tumbles to Ground From Upstairs Window, But Suffers Only Slight Injury.

Raymond Straub, jr., four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Straub, 35 Parker street, was in General hospital today after an 18-foot fall from the second story window of the Straub home last night.

Physicians at the hospital said the child's condition was "good," but he was still being held for observation today. They said no bones were broken.

According to the family, Raymond fell through the screen in a bedroom window and narrowly missed landing on a sidewalk at the side of the house. He landed on the lawn.

Miss Isabel Gerstmeyer, deputy municipal court clerk, aunt of the child, was in the room with the boy and his mother. She said the child had apparently gone to the window and leaned against the screen which is believed to have been loose.

"I was on the other side of the room with Raymond's mother when I heard the screen give way and turned around just in time to see the child's feet disappear out the window," she said.

Friends of the family took the news of the accident to the father, who was attending the Fifth ward fish fry at Spiker's grove.

In another accident last night police reported that Paul Massa, 22, of 29 Mendota street, suffered severe lacerations about the face when his bicycle collided with a car operated by Fred Rueckert, 295 Glessner avenue.

Massa, admitted to the hospital, was reported in "good" condition today.

Police said Rueckert told them he was turning into the driveway at his home when Massa rode into the side of his machine.

PROMISES PEACE

Hitler Renews Assurance to Britain, Commons Told.

LONDON—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain told the house of commons today that Britain had received from Chancellor Hitler's confidential envoy renewed assurances of the German government "of their desire to achieve a peaceful settlement of outstanding questions."

The prime minister said these assurances had been given to Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, by Capt. Fritz Wiedeman, the German fuehrer's representative.

"Capt. Wiedeman did not come prepared to discuss any particular aspect of political affairs, but the conversation enabled him, owing to his contact with authoritative circles in Germany, to renew the assurances already given by the German government of their desire to achieve a peaceful settlement of outstanding questions," Chamberlain said.

ABOARD U. S. S. HOUSTON, ENROUTE TO PANAMA—(AP)—The cruiser Houston, carrying President Roosevelt and his fishing companions on a vacation jaunt down the Pacific, clipped along at 21 knots today toward French-owned Clipperton island, poorly charted and a danger to navigation.

The island is 670 miles off the Mexican mainland on a line between Hawaii and Panama.

BUILDING FALLS

18 Workmen Barely Escape; One Buried in Debris.

BALTIMORE — (AP) — A three-story brick building being remodeled collapsed here today, 19 workmen barely escaping from the cellar before the crash.

One workman, Dick Brady, whose shouted warning saved his fellows, was buried up to his neck in brick and mortar. He was believed not critically hurt.

Right To Question Employes Of TVA Stirs Storm In Probe

(By Associated Press)

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Congressional investigators of the Tennessee Valley authority arranged to turn today from testimony of deposed Chairman Arthur E. Morgan to consider a motion involving the right to question TVA employes.

Representative Jenkins (R., O.) moved yesterday to permit unrestricted questioning after Dr. Morgan charged that officials had instructed employes "not to talk" to him without their permission.

Morgan said the employes had been told they could talk only by agreement and in the presence of Committee Counsel Francis Biddle of Philadelphia.

In the flare-up which followed Biddle threatened to resign and Representative Mead (D., N. Y.) protested the Jenkins motion on grounds that utility executives or anyone else could gain access to TVA records through indiscriminate questioning of employes.

Biddle asserted he was only following a rule laid down by the committee which provided for TVA records and files to clear through his office.

Dr. Morgan continued on the witness stand today, his fourth day of testimony.

NLRB Considers Permanent Barring of Steel Attorney

LAWYER TURNS DOWN REQUEST FOR APOLOGY

Armstrong Charges Chairman of Board 'Prejudged' Case in Stormy Session.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The National Labor Relations board considered today the permanent exclusion of Clyde A. Armstrong, chief counsel for the Weirton Steel company, from further participation in an 11-months-old hearing on charges that the company has violated the Wagner act.

Armstrong has been barred from the hearing for "contemptuous, defiant and contumacious" conduct by Trial Examiner Edward Grandison Smith. The board's hearing of the appeal yesterday resulted in several clashes between members of the board, counsel for the board, Armstrong and his attorney, Earl F. Reed, of Pittsburgh. Armstrong charged the N. L. R. B. chairman, J. Warren Madden, had "prejudged" the case.

The case was unprecedented in the history of the board and there was no indication when or what action it would take.

Refuses to Apologize.

The board took the case under advisement after Armstrong refused to apologize, contending that he had done nothing to apologize for. Reed said that Armstrong's "usefulness to his client would be gone" if he had to "cringe" before the board.

The board's general counsel, Charles Fahy, criticized Armstrong for "encouraging mob violence and mass demonstrations in the place of orderly processes of law" in his closing argument in support of the trial examiner's ruling. This was a reference to a protest demonstration at Steubenville, O., last week during which Smith was burned in effigy and Armstrong made a speech. Witnesses for Armstrong said that the attorney "was very reluctant" to participate in the demonstration.

Fahy called the board's attention to examples of alleged misconduct by Armstrong which preceded his exclusion from participation in the Weirton hearing. He said that Armstrong had told Trial Examiner Smith that he would "not be told when to sit down and when to stand up" and that "you may take whatever action that statement indicates."

Madden, who presided at the hearing, asked Armstrong to explain this remark. Over Reed's objection, Armstrong began a long explanation. Madden finally remarked that he thought Smith was right. At that point Armstrong accused Madden of having "prejudged" the case and refused to answer a series of questions by the chairman.

Lupe Velez Files Divorce Bill No. 3 Against 'John-ee'

HOLLYWOOD — (UP) — Lupe Velez, who has tossed many a dainty haymaker in the direction of her husband's chin—and ducked many a piece of furniture in return—had her third divorce suit on file today against her "John-ee."

Twice before, the Johnny Weismullers have gone to the divorce court, only to kiss and make up. But this time Miss Velez insisted that she never would return to the man she used to call her "love-lee brute."

Miss Velez charged Weismuller with being morose, sullen and cruel. She said he was so jealous he didn't even want her to go to the beauty parlor to get her hair touched up. She said that he forgot to come home to dinner even when she cooked it, and that he insulted her guests.

Weismuller, one-time swimming champion and Tarzan of the movies, left her last week, she charged, going to Lake Arrowhead.

Miss Velez, who has been appearing on the stage lately and in Mexican-made movies, closed their mansion and went yachting.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. HILL, 70

Resident of City for Half Century Had Been Ill for Six Years.

Mrs. Emily M. Hill, 70, of 55 Hill avenue, died today at the home after an illness of six years. A resident of Mansfield 50 years, Mrs. Hill was born in Butler township, Oct. 21, 1867.

Surviving are her husband, George M., and a daughter, Mrs. L. S. Barr of Mansfield. She was a member of the First Lutheran church.

Services will be held at the Finefrock funeral home at 1:30 p. m. Saturday with Rev. Grover E. Swoyer of the First Lutheran church officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery. The body was removed to the funeral home.

Up and Down THE STREET

Normalcy has returned to the Mansfield-Leland family now that Myrtle Mowry, one of the waitresses, has found her lost pup. When her dog became the mamma of a litter recently, Myrtle was so excited that she had to take time off and the other day one of the pups, with a yen for seeing the world, started out by himself and failed to return. Mrytle was on the verge of nervous prostration and fellow workers were almost ill with sympathy. They were ready to call in the police and fire department when someone found the pup.

There's one Mansfield auto driver who wants the world to know about it when he thinks he hasn't received a "fair shake." As the result he's driving about with a sign on the rear of his car: "I have a lemon, it's a ———." The word lemon is painted red with the background yellow in the form of a lemon. A dispute with the dealer over a $40 repair bill which he claims the dealer should pay caused the trouble, it seems.

W. L. Miller, superintendent of public schools, who has been losing a bit of sleep over the proposed school bond issue, has something else to worry about now. Citizens are estimating the cost of the new school bond at amounts that vary from two mills to eight mills, when as a matter of fact it is only 83 hundredths of a mill per $1,000 property valuation over a 20-year period. And the net increase over what they are now paying is only 43 hundredths of a mill, or 43 cents per thousand dollar valuation, because the 40 hundredths of a mill which is being paid now ends this year.

FIRES ROAR ON

6,000 Join in Battle to Halt Flaming Pacific Forests.

SAN FRANCISCO—(UP)—Additional forest fire fighting crews were mobilized today from British Columbia to Southern California as more than 600 fires swept Pacific coast forests causing millions of dollars' damage and endangering a score of towns.

Almost 6,000 men were on the fire lines in the three Pacific coast states and one Canadian province, and hundreds more were being summoned to protect property. Authorities said that at least five fires had been set by individuals to create employment.

In such emergencies many fire fighters are recruited from the ranks of unemployed in metropolitan centers.

High temperatures, low humidity, lightning and a prolonged dry period had brought the far west one of its most serious fire problems.

200 AT OUTING STAGED BY ELKS

Record Crowd at Picnic; Guests There From Distant Cities.

Some 200 members and guests of the Mansfield lodge of Elks attended the annual lodge picnic Wednesday afternoon and evening at Winsky's grove near Alta. It was the largest crowd to attend the event in the past several years, according to Bert B. Kuhn, secretary.

Attendance at the picnic was about 100 more than has attended the outing for the past several years, Kuhn said. Among those attending were visitors from Galion, Ashtabula, Ashland and Lima.

Fred Kohler headed a committee in charge of arrangements.

ANNOUNCES NEW BUS CHANGES

Rapid Transit Shifts Starting Time and Route of Bowman Street Line.

The Mansfield Rapid Transit company today announced further changes in its transportation schedules and bus routes.

The changes include a new schedule of departure from Main and Fourth streets and minor changes in routing on the Fairground and the Bowman street line.

H. W. Arnold, president of the company said the changes will become effective Monday.

Under the new schedule of departures, buses on all lines will leave Fourth and Main streets on the hour and at 20 minutes and 40 minutes past the hour until 6:30 p. m. After 6:20 p. m. all lines will depart on the hour and half hour. Service in the mornings will start at 5:20 a. m. on week days and at 7 a. m. on Sundays. On Sundays the service will be on the hour and half hour throughout the day.

With the inauguration of the new schedule, the company announced that on the Fairground line, service on Sixth street and on Bowman street between Sixth and Springmill street will be discontinued and the bus will be routed over North Main street to Sixth, Mulberry, Springmill and to the Fairground with the tripper service still to be maintained to Lumbermans Heights. This service will be maintained on week days until 6:20 p. m.

CLASS OF 1928 HOLDS REUNION

Grads of 10 Years Ago Gather Saturday For Picnic.

The second reunion of the January, 1928 graduating class of Mansfield Senior high school will be held Saturday evening at the Devil's Punch Bowl on the Wooster road.

This will be the second reunion of the class since graduation ten years ago. A picnic dinner will be served at 6:30 p. m., and will be followed by election of officers. John Bertka is now president.

Arrangements for the reunion are in charge of a committee comprising Bertka, Mrs. H. L. Bryner, Mrs. Earl Hartley, Miss Dorothy Curtis, Nathan Heston and Charles Cook.

GAY EVENING TO BE PRIZE FOR BIGGEST RICHLAND FARM FAMILY

Bring on the kids—all of you paters and maters whose chillun number more than one figure, for there's an evening of entertainment in it for Pop and Mom and all the kids at the Madison theater—if your happen to have the biggest family among Richland county farmers.

Considering the temperature in the last few days and what not, Manager Bill Dworski has a pretty good idea. It's one swell evening for the biggest rural family in the county. It must be a bona fide farm family and not one of those city-country commuting groups.

The idea is to find the farm family with the largest number of children, married or single, bring them into Mansfield in new cars, take them to dinner and then to the theater, with an ice cream treat afterwards.

Several Mansfield merchants have entered into the idea with enthusiasm. They all figure that a farmer's life is a pretty busy one these days, and an evening in town at the movies might be a happy interlude.

Dworski has arranged with the Chevrolet company to provide new cars for transportation for the family—even if it takes three cars; the Parkway restaurant will be host at a dinner party for the family; Carek's will have flowers for the mother, and Shumaker's drug store will chip in with a big box of chocolates. They'll spend the evening at the Madison and then go to Isaly's Park Avenue store for ice cream afterward.

Sounds like a nice break in the summer work, doesn't it? But first the family must be established as the largest in the county. Every farm family that has a claim to numerical greatness is invited to register for the "big family" contest, by sending in the names and ages of their children, to William Dworski, Madison theater, Mansfield. Grandchildren and in-laws don't count — nor the neighbor's children.

The contest starts right now and ends next Tuesday night, as Wednesday is the Big Night. The contest is being staged in connection with the picture "Love Finds Andy Hardy", which promises to be the best of the very human and interesting series about Judge Hardy's Family. The picture opens Sunday and runs through Tuesday.

COSTLY CRASH

Shiloh Driver Pays $20 Fine and $135 Damages.

Pleading guilty in municipal court to a charge of careless and reckless driving, James Swanger, 61, R. D. 3, Shiloh, yesterday was fined $175 and costs and his operator's license suspended for 90 days.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch suspended $155 of the fine on the condition that Swanger pay $135 damages to the other car involved in a collision on route 13 north of Mansfield Monday night.

Swanger was arrested by State Highway Patrolman C. W. Cale after his car had struck a machine driven by Henry V. Hennessy, 142 Stewart avenue. Cale testified that Swanger admitted drinking a glass of beer. He said tire tracks from the machine showed that the car was on the wrong side of the road at the time of the accident.

50,000 TROOPS, 300 TANKS SHOW DEFENSE MIGHT

Monarch Greeted by 100-Gun Salute as Versailles Puts on Festive Event.

(By Associated Press)

PARIS — France massed her military might today to honor King George VI of Great Britain and to give point to a common course the two allies are charting in an effort to prevent that army from being called into use.

Fifty thousand crack French troops, fighting planes and 300 tanks assembled in suburban Versailles to parade before the British monarch. The king wore a field marshal's uniform.

King George, arriving at Versailles, was greeted by a salute of 101 guns.

After Peace Guarantee.

The review assumed particular significance in the light of yesterday's secret conference of British Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax, French Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet at which France sought a British promise to resist Germany's campaign against Czechoslovakia, as a guarantee of peace.

It was generally considered, for once, that the official foreign office communique issued after the diplomatic conference meant just what it said—France and Britain stood by the general terms of their April agreement to act together to preserve peace and to be ready to fight together if other efforts failed.

While there was no doubt about the closeness of the French-British alliance, there was strong doubt that the cautious Lord Halifax, had been persuaded to give France the specific guarantees she wanted of automatic military aid should she decide it was necessary to fight to preserve Czechoslovakia independence.

Reports that Lord Halifax already had drafted the communique and had it approved by British Premier Neville Chamberlain before he left London Tuesday lent color to a belief the talks resulted in no detailed plan of action for central Europe but left the way open for France and Britain to adapt their moves to the needs of the moment.

GET CASH

Schools to Pay Off Debts With Foundation Money.

Mansfield and Richland county schools received $49,403 in state foundation money today, but they will have to use it to pay off debts incurred in March and not for current bills.

The allocation in cash, which represented 50 per cent of the notes authorized four months ago, included $26,742 for the 13 rural districts in the county and $22,661 for Mansfield schools.

The funds will permit boards to pay off the remainder of debts contracted in March with state authorization, but city schools, still owe $45,020 which they borrowed in June, Dr. J. H. Bristor, board clerk said today.

Distribution of the money to rural schools which will be as follows: Madison township, $3,733; Lexington, $3,422; Butler village, $3,076; Bellville, $2,970; Springfield township, $2,557; Union rural, $2,219; Plymouth village, $1,668; Monroe township, $1,502; Butler rural, $1,257; Cass township, $1,972; Bloominggrove township, $456; Mifflin township, $527, and Washington township, $383.

FAIR ENOUGH!

'Shut Up' Policy of New Deal Against Foes Seen As Most Common Error

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The most provocative editorial that I have read in a year was the one in which The New York Daily News, a New Deal paper, proposed an investigation of the press. There was one bug in it. That was where Capt. Joe Patterson, the editor and proprietor, proposed that this be President Roosevelt's answer to criticism of himself and to publicity regarding Jimmy's insurance business.

He said Alva Johnston's article in the Saturday Evening Post entitled, "Jimmy's Got It," in effect accused the president and Jimmy of being crooks and grafters—a conclusion with which I disagree, believing that, at the very worst, they have only been measured alongside the president's own expressed concept of ethical official conduct, and that the decision as to whether they do or don't measure up has been left to the people. He puts the tape on other people's ethics, and their morals, too, doesn't he?

An investigation of the press would not be an answer. The investigation would defeat its own purpose if it were offered as an answer, because any publisher or publicist who got his bib caught in the ringer would holler "Persecution!" and "Lese majesty!" and play off the motive against the results.

* * *

But aside from this stipulation, I agree with the captain's idea and offer as a constructive amendment a suggestion that the investigation by all means include an inquiry into the foreign press of this country, which is a mystery to all of us non-foreigners or monolinguists and might be promoting sedition under foreign subsidy given in the form of money or official honors from European dictators.

These papers circulate in little clots of foreign-minded Americans, hyphen-American and anti-Americans, and it would be consistent with the investigation to see from their files what they have been saying about the country which is their host.

* * *

And if this investigation is to go into the financial life of the American press, on a prowl for obligations which might impose hidden but potent motives for their editorial policies, our foreign press should be similarly inspected. Our religious press, too Let's make it a party.

Offhand, I can't think of enough high-minded statesmen in both houses of congress to make a quorum for such an investigating body, but we would have to stand for whatever we got in the way of personnel, even though it included Minton of Indiana.

* * *

I disagree with Capt. Patterson where he states a belief that the great majority of anti-New Deal newspapers and magazines are trying to build up a fanatical hatred of the president. That of itself is an incitation to the class hatred and the disastrous consequences which The Daily News foresees unless the boil be lanced by a press investigation.

The only square way to reply to the anti-New Deal editorial matter is to refute each criticism, remembering always that there is not and shouldn't be any law or other obligation requiring a publisher or editorial commentator to approve all or any part of the New Deal, or to refrain from criticizing all or any part of it.

* * *

According to Patterson's argument here, the only way to prevent disastrous consequences is to shut up about the New Deal and fall back on the old "swat the fly" and "crime must go" editorial formula. I submit that this is the most common and most arrogant error of the New Deal and its editorial supporters; that, if you don't agree with them, you are dangerous and probably a louse.

Hollywood Speaks---

By ROBBIN COONS

(Robbin Coons, our Hollywood columnist, is on vacation. Basil Rathbone, one of filmdom's foremost menaces, takes over for the day.)

By BASIL RATHBONE

HOLLYWOOD—"I liked the picture, didn't you?"

"Yes, great entertainment, wasn't it?"

"Cary Grant gave such a good performance."

"Katharine Hepburn was great, too."

"Excellent photography."

"George Cukor always directs his pictures with such a feeling of reality."

"And charm."

"Give credit where credit is due," one says complacently to one's self driving home. "those actors did a really good job, and the direction and photography and the musical score were all excellent. Everyone deserves credit!"

Everyone? Everyone. Yet seldom is public tribute paid to those in the many departments at the studios without whose expert skill, imagination, and hard work, neither acting, directing, nor photography could receive their full value in any picture.

The actor is most dependent of all. What one wears, the atmosphere of the sets in which one acts, the props one uses, are of vital importance to help create the mood so difficult to find in a business built up so much on pure mechanics.

* * *

I want to salute those grand workers who help us actors so purely, competently, silently.

The designers, tailors, the cutters who make and fit a costume of any period with ease and skill, they are remarkable people. Expert, imaginative, patient beyond belief—often they have only a day or so in which to turn out the most elaborate costumes. And they have to be right! There are no re-takes for those artists.

Other unsung experts who rate orchids are the set-dressers and their ingenious crews. In "Robin Hood" and "If I Were King," castle walls are made and set up so that it is impossible to tell, even by touching them, that these walls are not of age-old stone. Actually, they are reproduced to the most minute detail, even to cobwebs—cobwebs that, were blown from a spray gun—but webs of inconceivable perfection.

* * *

AND the property department—another no-retake job! A bottle thrown at me in this same picture smashes a few inches from my face on a "stone" buttress. The bottle is a "break-away," made by an unseen artist of some mixture of rosin. Of course it looks exactly like a wine bottle, but when it breaks and the pieces fly all over the place, some in one's face, they do not cut.

"Hey props!" is probably the most frequently heard pair of words on any set any day—and "props" is always there, with everything the script requires and another thousand "emergency" things, from pins to sealing wax—and back again.

Behind the scenes of every business and profession are its unsung "heroes," but no one industry demands the infinite variety of experts who are literally behind the scenes in Hollywood. We "before-the-camera people" get our applause freely—and it is great. But it's nice to have this chance to share it with those without whom there would be none for us."

Father-Son Battery Wins for Mt. Gilead

17-Year-Old John England Compiles Enviable Record for High School, Amateur Teams.

Fullager Shows Perfect Control In Winning Six Straight Games for Johns Park Entry.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

FANS down around Mt. Gilead are only mildly concerned with the progress of the Indians and Reds in the major league pennant races. They are chiefly interested in the home town ball club featuring the unusual attraction of a father and son battery

The pitcher is John England, a 17-year-old high school junior, and he has been winning regularly with Tom, his dad, behind the plate.

John is a major league prospect, Mt. Gilead fans contend, and it is rather difficult to dispute them. The Mt Gilead boy has compiled an enviable record in his brief career

Back in 1932 at the age of 11, Johnny did his first job of pitching. It was with a juvenile team organized by his dad.

In his freshman year at Mt. Gilead high school, young England won 16 games and dropped three. He chalked up 20 victories in his sophomore year.

A junior this year, Johnny won six high school games without a defeat this spring, and has continued his great mound work with the Eagles' amateur club this summer. His record includes a one-hit performance against the Ideal Cleaners, Columbus.

A modest sort of a chap, Johnny has baseball ambitions, but first is interested in an education. He attributes his success to constant practice every evening with his dad.

Needless to say, Johnny thinks his dad is the best catcher in the world.

Fullager Issues Nine Walks In Six Games.

HURLING several days a week for different teams, Jimmy Fullager's complete pitching record for the year is not known, but he has fared well enough in the City Class A league to deserve recognition as one of the standout softball twirlers in the city again this season.

The Johns Park mound toiler has won all six games in which he has participated, and he has permitted only 16 runs in 54 innings.

Fullager yielded eight runs in the first game of the season, and three is the most any rival has been able to score on him since In fact, only eight runners have crossed home plate in the last five games

The star right-hander has permitted 42 hits in the six games, an average of seven per tilt His best performance was against Liberty Park three weeks ago when he gave up only three blows

Perhaps one of the reasons why Fullager has been a consistent winner is his control. Fullager has issued only nine bases on balls, while striking out 37.

Fullager's value to the Johns Park team can be gleaned from the fact that the only game it has lost came when a pitcher other than he worked on the mound.

Legion Team Signs Hoff, Plays at Logan.

DEWEY DURANT'S American Legion ball players resume their Central Ohio league schedule at Logan Sunday The Legionnaires trimmed Logan once this season, but may face a tougher task Sunday

Although still in the second division, Logan has been strengthened considerably since the first meeting, but the Legion men are the probable winners.

The Legionnaires are playing better ball than their record indicates, and if they receive the breaks they deserve they should make it interesting for the stronger teams in this half

Durant has obtained Russ Hoff, who recently returned from St. Louis where he received a treatment for a lame back suffered while performing with Pennington Va in the Appalachian league, but will be used in outfield and pinch-hitting roles until he can take his turn on the mound without aggravating the injury

Shelby Star High In Votes

Jim Miller Among Leaders In All-Star Grid Poll.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The big race to climb aboard the all-star Ohio college team which battles the Cleveland Rams in a charity game Sept 2 is reaching the halfway mark with a pronounced dark horse Lou Nemec of Ohio northern, leading all other candidates.

Nemec a center from Bellaire, O., had 13,230 votes in today's tabulation by the Cleveland News, which with the American Legion club of Cleveland is sponsoring the scrap between the football stars who graduated this year and the national professional league outfit.

Jim McDonald, Ohio State star from Springfield topped all backfield candidates with 12 467 votes to 11 028 for his college mate, Jim Miller of Shelby Frank Keiker, Western Reserve, headed the end candidates, Phil Ragazzo of Niles and Western Reserve led tackles and Sol Maggied, Ohio State guard from Columbus, headed other candidates for his position

Nemec by mistake was omitted from the original list of suggested eligible players and his boosters down in Bemont county started such an active campaign that he came up from nowhere to head the entire list

Lose by 7 to 1 Count to Keller News Club.

The Herrick Hi-Speeds suffered a 7 to 1 defeat in a game with the Keller News under the lights in Norwalk last night.

The Mansfield club obtained only five hits off the delivery of Bradha, while Pete Beer yielded 14. The hosts jumped into a 2 to 0 lead in the first inning.

Bob DeHaven's single was the only hit secured by the Hi-Speeds in the first five innings. In the sixth, Martz DeHaven walked and Earl Herrick and Ganaway hit successive singles to score the lone Mansfield tally.

Schmidt singled in the eighth and Clarence Herrick hit safely in the ninth, but Mansfield did not threaten in either inning.

In addition to limiting the Hi-Speeds to five hits, Bradha set 15 down via the strike out route.

One Bad Pitch Robs Vandy of 12th Victory

Max West Hits Home Run in 9th to Give Bees Win.

CINCINNATI — (U.P.) — One bad pitch today had robbed Johnny Vander Meer of a chance to score his 12th victory of the year and dropped the Cincinnati Reds back into fourth place in the National league standing.

The costly pitch came with one man out and two on base in the ninth inning of the Reds' contest last night with the Boston Bees. With two strikes on Outfielder Max West, Vander Meer attempted to blaze a fireball past the Boston gardener. West took a toehold and smashed the ball into the right field bleachers for a home run to give the Bees a 4 to 3 triumph.

Runs Into Trouble.

Vander Meer ran into trouble in the first inning when Elbie Fletcher's double, an infield out and a long fly gave Boston one run, but from then until the ninth he was at his best.

For the first eight innings the husky southpaw gave the Bees only two hits and had walked but a pair of batters Gil English opened the fatal ninth by singling. Then Tony Cuccinello walked. Vander Meer fanned Hal Maggert before West came to the plate to break up the game.

The Reds got to Lou Fette for three runs in the second inning when McCormick reached second on a wild throw by Rabbit Warstler. Lombardi walked, and Craft singled to fill the bases Two runners scored when Riggs singled and the third came home on a long outfield fly

In the ninth the Reds made a threatening gesture when they filled the bases with none out off Relief Pitcher Dick Errickson, but the rally was snuffed out when Riggs bounced out and Pinch Hitter Dusty Cooke hit into a double play The Reds are not scheduled today.

Abandon Hope.

Following the game General Manager Warren Giles announced that all hope of obtaining Infielder Woody English had been abandoned Giles said Commissioner Kenesaw M Landis notified him English was still the property of the Brooklyn club and had been placed on the voluntary retired list.

CINCINNATI — (U.P.) — Johnny Fischer, former U. S amateur champion, will play in the Gem City and Cleveland opens as preparation for the 1938 U. S amateur championship at Pittsburgh Oakmont in September, he announced today.

Wrigley Hopes Appointment Will Stimulate Chicagoans

Lazzeri Not Affected by Managerial Change; Grimm Views Dismissal With Mixed Feelings.

By STEVE SNIDER, United Press Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO—A big, red-faced Irishman, delighted with his own good fortune but sad for the man he replaced, took over the job of managing the Chicago Cubs today after 17 years' service as the club's catcher

Charles Leo Hartnett, 37 and gabby, a man everybody likes, was made manager by Owner Phil K Wrigley, who, dissatisfied with the team's fourth place position in the National league standings, fired Charlie Grimm.

Hartnett, Grimm and newspapermen were ushered into Wrigley's office, late yesterday

"Gentlemen," Wrigley said, "I've decided to make Hartnett the manager"

Won Flag In '32.

The Cubs are five and a half games out of first place. Grimm, a smile creeping slowly over his face, might have been thinking of an almost identical conference in 1932, when Wrigley announced that he was replacing Rogers Hornsby. The team then was six full games behind the league leader then.

"Well, Leo," Wrigley said, "I sure hope you can win the pennant."

With the club of 1932, Grimm produced a 14-game streak that landed it in the world series with the New York Yankees. Wrigley hoped that Hartnett's appointment would give the Cubs the same stimulation.

Grimm and Hartnett were expected to confer today and the meeting likely will be Grimm's last activity as a Cub Although his contract runs until the end of 1938, his release was effective today. He will be paid for the full term of his contract.

Wrigley and Hartnett claimed to have made no arrangement as to Hartnett's salary as manager.

"Leo will not be fired if the team fails to win the pennant," Wrigley said "That's too short notice I think I'm safe in saying he'll be given a contract for 1939."

Gabby's major league career—17 years with the Cubs—is one of the most brilliant in baseball He went to them in 1922 from the Worcester (Mass) club of the Eastern league and was a star almost at once.

As a handler of pitchers, he has no peer. His throwing arm is deadly. His knowledge of opposing National league batsmen probably is unequalled. His popularity is unlimited in Chicago and he stands almost as well with fans of every other city.

Hartnett has caught 100 or more games for 12 years, last year tying the "iron man" record of Ray Schalk, former Chicago White Sox star His lifetime batting average is 300 In 1935, he was voted the National league's most valuable player.

The managerial change did not affect Tony Lazzeri, member of the world champion New York Yankees for 12 years, who is a candidate for a front office job though still a player and coach.

Plans No Changes.

Hartnett said he would make no immediate changes. He said he would stand by Grimm's selection of pitchers for the next few days, indicating he would send Dizzy Dean against the New York Giants as scheduled Friday.

Grimm viewed the change with mixed feelings. He indicated he felt he might have pulled the club through this year "in view of the showing the last few days in which we won seven out of eight."

"But all the luck in the world to Gabby He's got everything he needs to make good—personality, ability and baseball knowledge."

DeLuxe Cabs, Beeber-Ross Play Friday

Frisbee, Fullager to Appear on Hill at Johns Park.

The De Luxe Cabs and Beeber-Ross softball teams will play the second game of their seven-game grudge series at Johns park at 5 p. m. Friday

The Beeber-Ross club won the first game of the series last week, but the Cabs are hopeful of evening the count Friday. Frisbee and Valentine will be on the firing line for the Cabbies.

Jimmy Fullager and Aston will form the battery for the Beeber-Ross club

The De Luxe and Beeber-Ross teams are two of the strongest softball aggregations in the city, and the first game drew an enormous crowd.

Dean May Make Great Pilot Out of Grimm's Successor

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK—(AP)—Maybe Tony Galento can't box but he certainly can be funny . . . Latest about the pride of Orange, N. J., concerns his interior decorating depot . . . Tony couldn't figure out why the place didn't pay so he went into conference with the proprietor of a successful place in Newark . . . "Well, suppose I look at your books," said his friend . . . 'What books" asked Tony . . . "Don't you keep books for your place?" asked the other Listen partner" replied the great man, "people come to my place to drink beer, not read"

* * *

That's swell news from Montreal . . . Couple of weeks ago the fans up there were after Rabbit Maranville's scalp . . . Now they're packing the park (10 000 of them last night) to cheer him and the Royals . . . the team has gone unbeaten in nine games, which is plenty of baseball in any league . . . and they couldn't have done it for a grander guy than Old Rab . . .

* * *

Well that situation at Chicago is finally ironed out . . . Wonder what will happen to Signor Tony Lazzeri . . . now that Gabby Hartnett has taken over the job of managing the Cubs . . . Wouldn't it be fun if the Cubs started to click in the National right now . . . and with Mr. Dizzy Dean apparently ready for something besides oral manslaughter they might do just that . . . Dean made a poor manager out of Grimm and it wouldn't surprise this department if he made a great one out of old Chas Leo Hartnett.

Os' Vitt Has Indians Sold on Pennant Idea

Not Worried About Cocky Yankee Team

Tribe Is 'Staying In There' Come Good Days or Bad; Possesses Spirit.

By DREW MIDDLETON

NEW YORK—(AP)—Oscar Vitt, who has been teaching the Cleveland Indians how to tame the brewer's big horse at Yankee stadium, won't make any pennant predictions right now, but he will admit that he, and baseball, are getting more whacky every year.

The Indians are in town for what was to have been a "crooshal" four-game series with the Yankees. Rain washed out yesterday's double header and left the clubs a double bill today and a slight lessening of tension all around—that is for all except Mr. Vitt.

'Staying In There.'

"This pennant thing has everyone up in the air. You know we have a pretty good ball club. We went to Washington for a series and what happens? Don't tell me, I know. We lost two out of three to the Senators and then played bad ball in Philadelphia."

In other years this would have washed the warpaint off the Indians, but this year the Tribe is "staying in there" come good days or bad. What was Medicine Man Vitt's prescription for keeping the Tribe on the ball?

"No prescription needed," snapped Vitt. "This is a good ball club. A lot of stuff, hitters like Averill and Trosky, this boy Keltner at third base, plenty of good pitching—Harder pitched a sweetheart up there Tuesday, didn't he?—and a lot of spirit. They don't choke up, though I see some of our friends think they will, and they hustle."

Lary Looks Good.

To an observer the last two words are the important ones. The Indians play every game to the hilt. Lyn Lary is making plays at short he never attempted before all because Vitt has the former Yankee shortstop and the rest of the team sold on the pennant idea. They're not too worried about the Yankees, who they privately think are too confident, or anyone else.

Gehrig's Feat of Playing 2042 Games Bores McLemore

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—I know this will brand me as a heretic, but I feel obliged to say today that of all the things that bore me in baseball, nothing does it so much as Lou Gehrig's feat of playing 2,042 consecutive games for the Yankees.

The fact that Gehrig has not missed a league game since June 1, 1925, when he replaced Wally Pipp at first base, leaves me cold.

To come right out and say so I consider Gehrig's insistence on playing even when he has fractured bones (such as he now has), concussions and fever as abnormal and none too flattering. Usually it is the dumb or the desperate who continue to carry on while in pain. The human thing to do when you're hurt is to take it easy.

Granting that Gehrig's refusal to give in and miss a game when he is injured is good for his scrap book and ego, I wonder if it is good for his team? There have been times, when Lou was younger and better, when he was a better first baseman injured than anyone who could have been put in to replace him. But I doubt if that is true today. He knocked but one ball out of the infield against the Cleveland Indians in the crucial game Monday, and it was plain that he was favoring his badly swollen thumb.

Suppose a manager found himself with a team composed entirely of men protecting a consecutive game streak? Picture a team where the catcher had a cracked wrist but insisted on going behind the plate, and the pitcher demanded his right to work, fractured skull or no fractured skull; a team where the short-stop hobbled about with a sprained ankle; the second baseman with pneumonia; the third baseman with beri-beri, and the outfield with advanced cases of chestnut blight.

It wouldn't take the supporters of such a team long to cease admiring such foolish gameness and demand that its players be replaced by able-bodied workmen.

Double Loss Drops Giants

Now Trail Leading Pirates By Game and a Half.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—The New York Giants appeared to be coming apart at the seams today. They are far from the Giants who were famed for their tight defensive play, their ability to rise to the occasion in a crisis and their dogged determination when odds against them were the heaviest.

This team of Bill Terry's isn't the same club of which they used to say, "the Giants never beat themselves, you've got to lick 'em." It hasn't the heart of the championship combination of 1936 and 1937.

The cruelest blow the Giants have had to take all season came yesterday when the seventh-place St. Louis Cardinals beat them 7-2 and 7-1. The double defeat dropped New York to a game and a half from the top and left them only four games ahead of the third-place Cubs.

The Cards southpawed the Giants to death—Clyde Shoun letting them down with four hits in the opener and Bob Weiland keeping nine scattered in the nightcap. Homers by Leiber and Seeds were the only runs made off Shoun, and Ott's homer was the only run off Weiland.

Johnny Mize, Cards' first sacker, hit three homers in the second game to drive in five runs. It was the second time this season he has hit three homers in one game, and it brought his season's total to 11. The Cards battered Cliff Melton for 11 hits in the opener and pounded Slick Castleman out of the box in six innings in the second game.

The Giants' western trip has been one of the worst in recent years, with only three wins in ten games. Cincinnati was dumped into fourth place when nosed 4-3 by the Boston Bees in a night game.

Pittsburgh divided a doubleheader with the Phillies, but gained ground on the Giants. After Al Hollingsworth blanked the Pirates, 11-0, in the first game, they came back to win the second, 4-1, behind the five-hit pitching of Russ Bauers.

THEATER

WHILE the opinions of movie critics from the Southern California papers have little weight with the rest of the country because of a tendency to blurb over all and any pictures, there must be something to substantiate their raves over "Marie Antoinette." Seldom have they written more wildly extravagant praise of any picture. Still-pictures from the film lead one to expect unusual background and stage settings and costumes. This was the story that the late Irving Thalberg had chosen for his wife, Norma Shearer, just before his death, and every effort has been made to bring it up to his own high standards of picture making. The cast includes Miss Shearer, Tyrone Power, Joseph Schildkraut, John Barrymore, Anita Louise and Robert Morley. It had its preview at the Cathay Circle, in Hollywood early this month and will be released late in the summer or early fall.

See Ohio at Madison.

Ohioans who are too busy or don't have the opportunity to motor, will have an opportunity to see their native state in pictures. The state department of education made a series of 14 travelogues of Ohio, each one independent of the other, and these will be shown from time to time at Warner theaters. The first one, shown some time ago at the Ohio, included all of the nature wonders in Hocking county. Another one, the second of the series, is booked for the Madison tomorrow and Saturday, and shows St. Mary's lake, historical places around Urbana, the George Rogers Clark memorial, Clifton gorge, Steamboat Rock, and other points of interest. The feature picture for the two days is George O'Brien in "Border G-Man," which puts one of the famous G-men in the saddle to ride the Western plains.

Story of the Sea.

A French play which ran for two continuous years in Paris provides Wallace Beery with his latest starring vehicle. It is an unusual story of a young man with two deep loves—one is a girl and the other the sea. His heart is torn between the two and his decision changes both their lives. Beery plays the rough, uncouth owner of a water-front cafe, with John Beal as his son, the boy who loves the sea more than a woman, even though he is ready to die for the woman. Maureen O'Sullivan is the girl. Frank Morgan, Jessie Ralph and Cora Witherspoon have character roles. "Port of Seven Seas," laid in colorful and picturesque Marseilles, France, opens at the Ohio today.

Stage Star Featured.

Lois Wilson, who is currently touring the country with the stage hit, "The Women," is a featured player in "Ticket to a Crime" which the Majestic presents Friday and Saturday. She appears with Ralph Graves, Lola Lane and Edward Earle in a mystery story of the kind that incriminates all of the characters at the beginning and keeps the audience guessing until the very last few feet of film. A valuable pearl necklace and a murder get the story off to a good start. Graves is seen as a private detective. Tim McCoy in "Phantom Ranger," an action picture of the West, is the second feature on the bill.

* * *

A Real Athlete.

Bob Steele, the carefree, two-fisted Western ace, who comes to the Ritz theater tomorrow and Saturday, was born and bred in the saddle and on the plains of Oregon, where some of the biggest ranches of the West are still found. He is an all round athlete whose physical prowess naturally catalogued him for action pictures. His latest picture is "The Fued Maker," which centers around a Texan who attempts to avenge the murder of his uncle. As usual in Westerns, the real criminals implicate the nephew and make it appear that he is the murderer. Marion Weldon, a new face in Western films, appears opposite Steele.

JAILED IN THEFT

Shoplifter Gets 30-Day Sentence And Fined $100.

An accused shoplifter pleaded guilty to a charge of petit larceny when arraigned in municipal court yesterday and was fined $100 and sentenced to 30 days in jail.

The man was James Kearns, a transient, who was ordered committed to the Columbus workhouse until the fine and sentence were paid. Kearns was arrested by Patrolman Howard Schuck at the Kresge store, 15 North Main street yesterday. He testified that the man had three pairs of hose in his possession which he said were taken from the store.

MADE ELIGIBLE FOR FARM LOANS

Seven more Ohio counties, including Morrow county, today had been made eligible to participate in the Farm Seurity administration's tenant purchase program for 1938, T. C. Wiley, Richland county supervisor, had been informed today.

Five counties already had been chosen to share in the $25,000,000 federal appropriation for farm loans. Richland county has not yet been made eligible for the program, Wiley said.

The tenant purchase program authorizes long-time loans to farm tenants for the purchase of land. From five to 10 loans will be authorized in each of the participating counties.

TAKE BOAT TRIP

Senior High Musicians to Play for Excursion Aug. 1.

The Mansfield high school band will make its first boat trip of the summer Monday, Aug. 1, when it furnishes music for an excursion to Detroit aboard the steamer Put-in-Bay.

The band, directed by J. Merton Holcombe, will play both on the way to Detroit and on the return trip. Dance music on the trip will be provided by Finzel's Marine orchestra.

The steamer will leave the Big Four dock in Sandusky at 8:30 a. m., arriving in Detroit at 2 p. m. On the return trip the boat is scheduled to leave Detroit at 6 p. m. and arrives in Sandusky at 11:30 p. m.

FISH DUCKS DOG

WOODSTOCK, Ont.—(U.P.)—Ontario carp can compete with the muskellunge, northern pike, tuna and tarpon for fight and drive. At least two Woodstock boys believe so. They caught a carp, stuck it on the head, and then tied the fish to their dog's lesh. The carp revived, struggled back into the water, and pulled the dog with it.

PIERCING PAINS IN SMALL OF BACK

Seldom Free from Aching Joints and Limbs

World's Tonic Does Speedy Work on Upset Stomach

Day after day, more and more local people, as well as some from nearby towns are dropping in at Central Drug Store to tell the WORLD'S TONIC man how his medicine has helped them. Here are some of terms they use in expressing their relief: "AMAZING — INCREDIBLE — SPEEDY — GLORIOUS—GRAND—SWEET." Needless to say, the makers of WORLD'S TONIC feel a sense of pride, to which these gratifying expressions should rightfully entitle them.

Let's take the case of Mr. G. T. Payne, a man 49 years of age and residing at 385 Lumbard St., Akron, Ohio, and quote from his story:

"Many times I wished I could find a good medicine to take for my troubles but was always disappointed until I happened to hear of and try WORLD'S TONIC. Reading of it and hearing local folks tell of so much good it had done for them decided me so I fell in line. You can quote me and say 'It is exactly what I have been looking for a long time!' Pains across the small of my back would sometimes make me think that every joint in my body was in trouble. My muscles in the mornings, after a night of tossing and turning would be all stiff and sore and for hours after arising my nerves were all quivery and I'd be irritable and absolutely unapproachable. People started avoiding me and looked at me as if there was something wrong upstairs. I became forgetful and spells of spots before my eyes gave them a blank appearance as if I was able to look but not able to see. A perpetual state of constipation kept my stomach in a terribly upset condition. All in all I was in bad shape when I started to take WORLD'S TONIC. The first thing that happened was what I call a glorious relief from constipation and then all its painful and alarming symptoms were halted one by one.

"I started to sleep well at night. Night risings were not so frequent. The pains and aches were not long in leaving. My nerves were soothed and that cranky irritable feeling went away after which my friends stopped avoiding me as of old. That sour acid sensation was gone from my stomach and I commenced to feel like an entirely new man. You can certainly say for me that WORLD'S TONIC is truly a fine medicine. It's odd how a person can feel so low and despondent and ready to give it all up and then some little thing like hearing people talk can change your whole future outlook on life. I really feel that the first day I heard people talking about WORLD'S TONIC was certainly My Lucky Day."

No habit forming drugs or narcotics are contained in WORLD'S TONIC. But it does contain valuable alkalines and roots and herbs compound. It is not unpleasant and nasty to take.

Get WORLD'S TONIC at Central Drug Stores and all other up-to-date Drug Stores. Adv. (E 21)

ORDINANCE NO. 38-120

By Mr. Hunter:

An Ordinance determining to proceed with the improvement of McPherson Street from Howard Street to Lawnsdale Street by grading the street and paving the roadway with concrete, brick, block, sheet asphalt or other suitable material and constructing the necessary curbing, headers, storm drainage, etc., and authorizing the issuance and sale of bonds to pay for said improvement.

Be it Ordained by the Council of the City of Mansfield, State of Ohio, Three-Fourths of all members elected thereto concurring:

Sec. 1. That it is hereby determined to proceed with the improvement of McPherson Street from Howard Street to Lawnsdale Street by grading the street and paving the roadway with concrete, brick, block, sheet asphalt or other suitable material and constructing the necessary curbing, headers, storm drainage, etc., in accordance with Resolution No. 38-91 passed 24th day of May, 1938, and in accordance with the plans, specifications, estimates and profiles of said improvement heretofore approved and now on file in the office of the Department of Public Service of said city.

Sec. 2. That all claims for damages resulting therefrom shall be judicially inquired into after completiton of the proposed improvement.

Sec. 3. That the whole cost of said improvement, less $9,500.00 shall be assessed by the foot front upon the lots and lands bounding and abutting upon the proposed improvement.

That to provide a fund for the payment of the pition of the cost and expense for which special assessments are authorized to be levied for the improvement of McPherson Street as aforesaid, the Mayor and Auditor be and they are hereby authorized to issue, advertise for sale and sell according to law Five Thousand Seven Hundred ($5700) Dollars of Street Assessment Bonds of the City of Mansfield, Ohio, in denominations of from 50 to 1000 Dollars each, payable in from One to Five years, and bearing interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually.

That to provide a fund to pay that portion of the cost of said improvement which has to be paid by the City of Mansfield, Ohio, to-wit: $9,500.00 shall be taken out of the Registration Fee Fund.

And the proceeds thereof shall be applied to the payment of the cost and expense of said improvement as aforesaid, and to no other purpose whatsoever.

An annual levy shall be made during the term of said bonds in an amount sufficient to pay the interest on the same and to provide a sinking fund for their redemption as they mature.

Sec. 4. That the following lots and lands shall be assessed for said improvement as above determined. All the lots and lands bounding and abutting upon said improvement on McPherson Street between Howard Street and Lawnsdale Street.

Sec. 5. That upon the sale of said bonds the proceeds thereof, together with the moneys received, if any, from the cash payments of assessments, shall be placed in the City Treasury; the accrued interest and premiums shall be placed to the credit of the sinking fund, and the remaining portion of the purchase price of said bonds shall be placed to the credit of McPherson street improvement fund and disbursed upon proper vouchers in payment of the cost and expense of the improvement aforesaid, and all moneys coming into said McPherson street improvement fund are hereby appropriated for the purpose of said disbursements

Sec. 6. That the Director of Public Service be and he is hereby authorized and directed to advertise for bids and to make and execute a contract for said improvement with the lowest and best bidder, according to law.

Sec. 7. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Passed. July 5. 1938.

K. P. TROLL.
President of Council.

Approved: C. M. HUNTER.
Mayor.

Attest: WM. J. BEER, JR.,
Clerk of Council.

STOCKS REGAIN STRIDE AFTER LOWER OPENING

Rails Assume Leadership on Upside Late in 2nd Hour; Chrysler Active.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK —(AP)— Another outbreak of selling in motion picture shares today turned a stock market rally into a quick retreat. Spreading from the movie issues—under attack since the federal government started its court action yesterday to separate theatre ownership from film production—the selling converted earlier gains into losses in many stocks.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—The stock market turned upward today from an early irregular lower trend. The majority of leaders moved behind plus signs, but there were a few losses scattered through the general list.

U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Youngstown each climbed more than a point in moderately active turnover.

Rails took over leadership on the upside late in the second hour, and were joined by rail equipments. Northern Pacific gained a point, along with Southern Pacific and N. Y. Central, while Santa Fe spurted close to 2. American Locomotive and Lime reached new highs for the year in the equipments, jumping 1 and 2 points, respectively.

Chrysler became active late in the forenoon, and rose better than a point to equal its peak for the year. Anaconda and Kennecott were firm spots in the coppers.

Owens-Illinois Glass, National Cash Register, Loew's, American Telephone and Hiram Walker were among the few backward issues.

FASCISTS PUSH NEW OFFENSIVE

Unleash General Drive As Loyalist Defense Lines Weaken.

HENDAYE, France —(AP)— Insurgents unleashed a general offensive in eastern, central and southern Spain today against government lines weakened by Gen. Francisco Franco's steady drive toward Valencia.

The scream of shells over long-besieged Madrid signalled the renewell of large-scale warfare in all sections of Spain.

Government Gen. Jose Maija's veterans troops, drawn from central and southern fronts, were concentrated in eastern Spain for the defense of Valencia, where they were being beaten back slowly along the Teruel-Mediterranean highway by mechanized Italian units.

'CORNER' TURNED, SAYS JOHNSON

Secretary Points to Rise in Steel Output, Other Factors.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Acting Secretary J. Monroe Johnson of the commerce department says industry has turned the recovery corner.

He based his view, expressed yesterday, on a six-point rise in steel mill operations, a five per cent gain in machine tool orders, and increases in automobile assemblies, consumption of cotton and production of power and coal.

"Improvement is more than psychological," Johnson said. "There are now definite figures to bear out earlier promises. A revival of purchasing is evident in primary markets, as well as in retail sales."

DENIES COLUMBUS MURDER

COLUMBUS—(AP)— Frank Gillen, 32, of Cleveland, pleaded innocent in municipal court today to a first degree murder charge in the fatal shooting Saturday of David Haskins, 33, Columbus used car lot operator. Gillen was ordered held without bond for grand jury action.

GIRL LIKES JOB MOVING HOUSES

Western Lass at 26 Shuns Housework but Drives a Heavy Truck.

(By United Press)

MOUND, Minn.—First she borrowed her father's team and plow and hired out to turn up garden patches for neighbors, then she slid behind the wheel of a truck that replaced the team and hauled dirt and cinders, and now she's moving furniture—and houses.

That's the financial story of the girlhood of Evelyn Krause, 26, who didn't like to take care of children, and wasn't very fond of housework. She is probably the only woman house mover in Minnesota.

In Mound school, she played football with stars such as Sheldon Beise, University of Minnesota player and now assistant coach; Milton Bruhn, now on the coaching staff at Amherst, and Walter Ohde, coach at Anoka, Minn., high school.

Miss Krause says that next to shifting houses around on rollers, the hardest part of her job is to move electric refrigerators. She feels the pleasantest part of her job is driving the truck, which she considers "nice easy work" and prefers because "it keeps me out in the open."

She tips the scales at 130 pounds, is 5 feet 7 inches tall, and has no trouble keeping her figure trim.

OK'S DITCH JOB

County Approves Possum Run Project If WPA Will Aid.

Improvement of the Possum Run ditch, south of Mansfield, provided WPA funds can be obtained for the project, was approved yesterday by county commissioners at a hearing at the courthouse.

Proposed construction of the ditch, which had been disputed for several months because of the cost, was estimated at $8,600 by County Engineer Howard C. Sword. The ditch would be approximately six miles long.

About six of the 30 property owners who would have to pay the assessments, protested at the cost, contending that they would not benefit by construction of the project.

If the ditch is included in a proposed county-wide WPA ditch program, property owners would be required to pay only 20 per cent of the cost, the commissioners said.

SNIPER KILLS SEA OTTER

MONTEREY, Cal.—(U.P.)—One of the herd of extremely rare sea otters, which appeared off the Monterey coast, was shot by someone with a powerful, long distance rifle. There is a law forbidding the killing of otters, whose pelts are valued at $1,000 each.

Held In Slaying

Wilburn C. Crews, 33 (above), of Jacksonville, Fla., is shown after his arrest in connection with the shotgun slaying of his wife, Ollie Mae Crews, 26, and the wounding of his daughter, Shirley, 10. The shooting took place at Mandarin, Fla.

WINS JUDGMENT

Kolb Awarded Tax Foreclosure Suits Totaling $1,351.

Tax foreclosure judgments for $1,351 on 11 lots in Mansfield and a 64-acre farm in Mifflin township had been awarded County Treasurer John E. Kolb today in common pleas court.

Judgment for $813 on the Mansfield properties was awarded against the Farmers Savings and Trust company, as trustee. The lots, all vacant, are located between Senior high school and Linden road.

Miss Olive Ernsberger is owner of the farm which was ordered sold to pay $538 in back taxes and penalties.

The court order for sale of the 11 lots in Mansfield specifies that the sheriff receive bids on each lot separately and then on all of them together. He must sell them according to the plan which will produce the most revenue.

Book of the Week

"OLD MOTLEY," by Audrey Lucas; (Macmillan: $2.50).

* * *

Audrey Lucas' "Old Motley" went with us on a long train trip. It was a success, being as long as the trip, relaxed, rather slow moving and yet so vivid that the imperfect concentration which is the best one can muster on a train did not destroy its effect. To be brief about it, "Old Motley" is a popular novel of the sort that usually gets the hero into the arms of the sacrificing but noble heroine in 250 pages. But it is expanded, enriched, documented, glorified. It runs 471 pages, is a costume piece, and probably will bring this daughter of E. V. Lucas acclaim and even money.

It is about a boy named Charles Baron, whose father is a "plain Quaker" and very strict indeed. John Baron, the father, has had two wives. Margaret is the daughter of the first wife, whom he loved extravagantly up to her death and after.

Charles, his frail, but intelligent brother William John, and Janey, their sister, are the children of the second Mrs. Baron, the unloved one. And Margaret has a fixation upon Charles, who is handsome and gifted and rebellious.

John Baron resents Charles from the first, and when it is obvious that the boy has a leaning toward such frivolities as the stage, and that Margaret loves him more than she loves her father, the Quaker reaches heights of violence most unbecoming a Quaker.

Three things set the book moving. One is Charles' fascination with the silly, worldly Rose Clifford. Another is Margaret's renunciation of her lover when her father refuses to allow Charles to live in his sister's prospective new home.

The third is Charles' determination to leave home for the stage. These are reasonably obvious matters—what enables Miss Lucas to spin her story out to such a length is the attention she pays to inventing and expounding lesser plots and minor cross currents.

Many historical people slip in and out of the narrative. The scenic detail is excellent, and one feels most of the time that he has moved back a century, and is actually living in those remote and sometimes glamor-ful days.

Only at the end, after Miss Lucas has used two ancient devices to bring things out right, does disillusion set in. That carriage accident, for example, is hard to believe.—By J. S.

TAKE WPA JOB, COURT WARNS

Father Told He Must Accept Work or Go to Workhouse.

His refusal to accept a WPA job to suport his wife and small child brought a 60-day suspended workhouse sentence to Charles Bowser, 190 East Fourth street, yesterday in probate court.

Bowser pleaded guilty to non-support charges which were filed by his wife, Mrs. Leona Bowser. She told Probate Judge C. J. Anderson that Bowser refused to although he had been offered a job on a WPA project.

Judge Anderson warned him that he would have to serve the workhouse sentence unless he accepts the job.

LAWS IN SWEDEN REQUIRE WEEK'S STRIKE NOTICE

'Snap Walk-Out' Impossible, Penalties Fixed for Both Employer, Employes.

(Editor's Note: Sweden's labor court is swift in levying penalties against either employe or employer if there is violation of a collective bargaining agreement, Webb Miller writes in the third dispatch of his series on labor in Sweden and Great Britain.)

* * *

By WEBB MILLER
(UP Staff Correspondent)

STOCKHOLM—A "snap strike," a sudden abandonment of work by union members, is impossible in Sweden, for the law compels workers to give a week's notice before walking out.

Failure to do so brings quick punishment from the labor court, the court of last resort on labor matters. Punishment is equally swift in case there is violation of a collective bargaining contract and both employer and employes are liable to fines.

I was given two examples of how the labor court, which includes representatives of unions, persons recommended by employers and three neutral members, functions.

Each Fined $125.

Ten bricklayers employed in Halsingborg struck for higher wages after their union had signed a collective agreement on wages and hours. The case was taken to the labor court which made a thorough investigation. The decision was that the bricklayers had violated their agreement. Each worker who struck was fined $125 and their union was fined $2,500 for allowing them to walk out in violation of the contract.

The court is equally stern with an employer who violates a contract, even if only one worker is involved. For instance, a shoe company was accused by the union of breaking a collective bargaining contract with a single workman. The labor court sustained the union's charge and ordered the management to pay a $250 fine, to pay $60 to the union for the costs of the litigation and to credit the employe in question with 96 hours working time.

From 1929 to 1935 the labor court handled 1,272 actions of which the workers brought 1,026. Employers referred 238 cases to the court and the remainder were brought by consent of both parties to the dispute.

Both labor leaders and representatives of employers seemed surprised when I told them of the world-wide interest in the Swedish system. They have come to take the system for granted, although they still do not consider it perfect. Erik Broden, director of the Swedish Employers federation—a sort of "capitalists' union"—pointed out what he considered the chief flaw.

Quick Alteration Out.

"One difficulty with the collective agreement system for fixed periods," he said, "is that a quick alteration in wage rates when industry is afflicted by depressions is ruled out. And once a certain wage level is reached it is hard to scale it downward. Through education and experience the workers have learned that if the employers do not make profits, wages will be lost. As a result, they usually do not begrudge employers fair and reasonable profits."

The Employers federation said that during the deflation period of 1921 it compelled the trade unions to agree to wage reductions ranging from 30 to 50 per cent. The reductions were given back to the workers gradually as conditions improved.

The Confederation of Trade Unions contends there has been a steady increase in the wage scale despite fluctuations caused by depressions.

DEFIES OUSTER

Steubenville City Official Rejects Resignation Demands.

STEUBENVILLE —(INS)— John N. Carter, for many years city waterworks superintendent, has indicated he would refuse the demand of Service Director Eugene Boyd that he resign.

Boyd, besieged by complaints about a series of water line breaks and shut-offs, informed Carter that ouster action would be instituted with the civil service commission if he did not quit.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

THURSDAY, JULY 21, 1938

The speed at which this summer has been going—1940 will be here before we know it!

It may be remarked that the younger generation is also quite disturbed about what the older generation is coming to.

Radio provides an example of how a luxury becomes a necessity—and, like as not, lack of a television set in the home will soon be regarded as evidence of abject poverty.

Flood Control Example.

A TWENTY-FIVE-YEAR-OLD project has now been completed and was recently dedicated. It is the Muskingum conservancy district which combines prevention of soil erosion in some areas, provision of industrial water supply in others, and flood control everywhere. Cities in the Muskingum valley began to talk and plan flood control after the disastrous floods of 1913 which caused millions of dollars of damage in cities and farm lands alike.

The system includes fourteen dams and reservoirs. Army engineers supervised the construction. The Public Works Administration allotted generous funds to the project. It was necessary to change the location of more than 60 miles of railroads, 145 miles of highways and 273 miles of utility lines.

John C. Page, commissioner of reclamation, calls it "a pattern for co-ordinated planning and co-operative effort" which may be "altered to fit needs elsewhere and copied many times to the benefit of the whole nation."

Big Job for Science.

WHEN you look at the world today, it seems doubtful whether the science developed by modern civilization will serve or destroy humanity.

Dr. Stuart Rice, speaking recently at a gathering of American scientists, admitted the possibility of "a catastrophic breakdown in social organization," because war is no longer a mere conflict between armies but a death-struggle of nations involving the whole people.

Danger of destruction grows with the increase of scientific knowledge and power. What is happening in Spain is a vivid picture of what might happen to all Europe. The deadliness of scientifically mechanized armies is seen also in the Japanese invasion of China. And what can happen in Europe and Asia might also happen later in America.

Science must be applied, Dr. Rice suggests, not to the extermination of rival nations or social groups, but to the problems of distributing the products of industry and technology. He thinks it is going to be found necessary not only to "improve the mechanism of distribution" but to "recast present forms of social organization, if further applications of science are to be translated into higher standards of living."

He doesn't profess to know what shapes this recasting will take, but believes that "ways can be found to reconcile social and political democracy with social efficiency, in a system which will permit the untrammeled development of science and the distribution of its benefits to all the people."

Queen Marie of Roumania.

MARIE OF ROUMANIA was the most interesting queen of modern times. She was beautiful. She had brains and intelligence. It was natural that she should escape the bounds that usually keep royal ladies to a limited routine and should do startling and spectacular things.

It is said that Queen Marie's early popularity and success went to her head and that ambition drove her to seek more power than she was able to handle. There were other events in her life, however, which entirely offset her mistakes.

Her service during the World war as a hospital nurse was of a high order. She actually worked, like any other nurse, and performed whatever menial or disagreeable tasks were to be done.

Although she was queen of a small country she became a world figure, increasingly admired and respected.

A Place for Walkers.

THERE has been a good deal of talk of paved sidewalks or good footpaths along highways, but nothing much has been done. A ruling of the state supreme court of Pennsylvania may start action along this line.

An eleven-year-old boy and his crippled sister were struck by a truck when they were walking near the side of a paved road. Their father sued for damages and won in the lower court. It was taken to the state supreme court where the award was upheld. The judges declared that pedestrians have equal rights with automobiles, and that if they are walking "along the right portion of a paved roadway" they are not required to turn and look for approaching traffic or step off the highway to permit the automobile to pass. The driver, apparently, must watch for them and go around them to the left as he would go around another automobile.

Fists Against Guns.

AMERICANS have long marveled that British policemen could get along so well without firearms. A story from London tells how it is done.

Two guards were escorting the weekly payroll of a manufacturing concern from the bank to the establishment. The guards, like the regular bobbies, were unarmed. As they were crossing a bridge two robbers wearing dark glasses and carrying guns stopped them and ordered "Hands up!"

Instead of sticking their hands in the air, one of the guards threw a left to one robber's chin while the other landed a similar blow in the other robber's stomach. The robbers leaped into their cars and sped away. The payroll was saved.

"The guards were not hurt at all," said a company official later. "If anyone was discomfited, it was the bandits."

The guards, it develops, were boxers with a few ribbons and championships to their credit. "They were specially chosen for the job," said the official.

Mr. Roosevelt finds the nation in a state of "mental migration"—which sounds like a modern version of "nobody home."

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

THE pronouncement the other day of Pope Pius against "excessive nationalism" is looked upon in statesmen circles as historic. It is expected to have a profound influence on world affairs. Following upon similar pronouncements in the recent past by President Roosevelt, Secretary of State Cordell Hull, other American statesmen and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Minister of the Exchequer Sir John Simon of Great Britain, it may well be the turning point of nationalism and militarism.

Even the mightiest of dictators cannot stand up before world opinion—and the remainder of the world is crystalizing against dictatorship and super-nationalism.

Yet the people of the dictator groups live in a sea of emotionalism. Their entire life is emotional. It may take generations for this emotional nationalism to be displaced again by reason.

There is no way of reaching the people of the dictator countries, unless the dictators so rule it. The words of the pope, of the president, of the prime minister do not appear in any Fascist newspapers or on any Fascist radio.

One can merely hope and pray for the enlightenment of spirit and reason. Education and vision must come before we can have understanding, peace and progress.

The spiritual, not to be confused with superstitional rites, has given way to nationalistic, warlike bombast, insane prejudices, wholly false economic premises. Each nation that falls into the abyss of nationalism proclaims that it stands alone, that it needs nothing except it own might.

One almost is tempted to quote the Bible—words of wise men—here, but that would be too moralistic.

* * *

ECONOMIC ISSUES

Back of the rise of nationalism are the economic issues that the so-called democratic countries failed to recognize. An impoverished Germany, an impoverished Italy, an impoverished Austria, an impoverished Japan made the people of those countries ready victims to fascism.

And if today there is a dictator in Russia, it may well be because all nations entered into an economic blockade against it in the early days of communism. A nation cut off immediately resorts to a military dictatorship. That is a lesson that statesmen never seem to learn.

The return to democracy and tolerance will be a slow and laborious one. It must not be forgot that the road never will be the same for state or church. It is a changing world. No one can stop this evolution. To try to stay it breeds greater violence. It is up to us to find the right path, calmly, unemotionally, ever trying to gain more and more knowledge and understanding.

* * *

NONE IMMUNE

We in America are not immune. There are candidates running in the present primaries who appeal to the same emotions and prejudices as do the dictators and their followers abroad. President Roosevelt calls them "the lunatic fringe." That is too mild, in the opinion of many observers. Such men are dangerheads. They menace the safety of the republic and all its democratic institutions.

There is nothing so terrible in all the world as uncontrolled emotionalisms and prejudices.

Wage-Hour Head Faces Difficulties

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Elmer Andrews, who is to administer the new wage-hour law, takes over a job which promises many a headache.

Elmer Andrews.

This law meshes with the national labor relations act.

And another piece of industrial legislation is foreshadowed from the study which the New Deal is making of the English system of regulations of relations between capital and the rank-and-file of British workers.

The general idea is that this network is to be in labor's interest—not unfairly so but to a sufficient extent to prevent the toilers from being overly exploited.

Labor naturally favors such a policy.

However, I think I note a tendency on the part of trades union leaders to fear that the thing will be excessively governmentalized, with the possible elimination of their own organizations. They want government support but they certainly do not want to have unionism supplanted by governmental regimentation.

* * *

NLRB TROUBLES

The National Labor Relations board assuredly has had plenty of trouble.

Employerdom assuredly does not like it. It is fighting the board here, there and nearly everywhere. That was to have been expected, perhaps, during the process of crystalization.

But employe-dom is not a friendly unit, either.

The A. F. of L. asserts that the board is anti-A. F. of L. and pro-CIO—not pro-capital but "pro" a rival labor set-up.

* * *

COMPLICATES MATTERS

This is a mean complication.

Personally I always have thought that the A. F. of L. is a labor aristocracy, and the CIO seems to me to be a labor democracy. But no matter; it is an unfortunate split in labor's ranks, anyway.

It is not harmonizing capital and labor, either.

* * *

WAGES AND HOURS

The wage-hour law?

Any kind of labor of course advocates decent wages and human hours. Capital does not necessarily.

Yet there is the dispute between northern labor and capital and southern labor and capital. Northern labor wants high pay and reasonable hours, and northern capital is tolerably acquiescent. But southern capital wants less pay and longer hours, and southern labor is qualifiedly acquiescent in that program also. Anyhow, it is advertised that the south is disappointed because Elmer Andrews is to be wage-hour administrator—because he is a northerner and, consequently, unlikely to be tolerant of sectional "differentials."

So far as I know CIO is satisfied with the wage-hour law.

But the A. F. of L. is on record to demand at least its major amendment at the next congressional session. Another row! — not between capital and labor but between labor and labor.

* * *

THE RIGHT TO STRIKE

Now President Roosevelt is sending a commission to England to investigate John Bull's labor laws.

Now, J. Bull's regime outlaws many kinds of strikes and picketings which, in the judgment of American labor ought to be legal. CIO would not even send a member on this commission. John L. Lewis, CIO's head, was outraged by the suggestion.

Lewis' CIO is in secession from the A. F. of L., of which the late Samuel Gompers was president, but Lewis recognizes Gompers as having been a great leader.

Said Gompers:

"The basic difference between the freeman and the slave is that one may strike, the other may not."

It is a distinction on which John L. Lewis stands.

Timely Editorial

Women's Shopping.

Very few men like to go shopping with their wives. It isn't that they do not wish to be in company with the companions of their joys and sorrows, but to them shopping is just a bore, a task to be gotten over with as soon as possible. Men want to buy, if they find they need to, and not to look around, compare values and look into windows. But sometimes they have to go willynilly.

On such enforced trips they discover many things. One is that those who declare that women do something like 85 per cent of the buying, or direct the buying, even of men's goods as well as of their own and those for the household, are not far wrong. Another is that while an advertisement of bargains leaves them flat and uninterested, the women are put on the qui vive by such announcements.

Still further, the husband is put to wonder by the careful selection the wife makes, of her detailed study, of her going from shop to shop, of her critical examination of texture, colors, prices and wearability, and of her bargain-hunting.

On the whole, however, most of us are glad that friend wife is so particular, so cunning, in fact, and so desirous of getting her money's worth.—Ohio State Journal.

Health Advice

Don't Fret Over Blood Pressure.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE POST-MERIDIAN atmosphere on the porches of summer hotels is likely to be filled with lengthy discussions of high blood pressure. The occupants of the rockers, ceaselessly rocking back and forth, whisper that the gentleman with the cane is here on account of the fact he has just learned he has high blood pressure. And naturally he is in a very depressed state of mind and has almost forgotten to get angry at the income tax.

Then the blow may fall upon anyone else on the porch, and through a casual visit to the doctor one discovers that he or she, too, has blood pressure.

Sometimes one feels that doctors ought to stop telling people about their blood pressure, for the average person takes such a serious view of it. The word "high pressure" sounds as if you were sitting on the valve of a steam boiler which might blow up any time. Doctors often forget to explain that they do not take such a serious view of the matter.

Blood pressure is not a fixed thing. It varies and changes from time to time, especially from emotion.

These emotional factors in causing a rise of blood pressure may be transitory. A good example of emotions temporarily influencing blood pressure is seen in the practical workings of the lie detector. The whole point of the test is that blood pressure changes with the emotional content of the conversation and the questions asked.

According to the studies of Mueller, the day and night fluctuations in people with high blood pressure follow the same pattern as normal individuals. He believes that emotional stimuli affect those with essential high pressure with extreme reactions, whereas in normal persons there would be only mild reactions.

There are, however, many cases where blood pressure has continued on a high level due entirely to emotional stress. Thus a typical case related by Wolfe is of a young man who had a blood pressure continuously over 160 (diastolic 100). He was found to have a definite psychic disturbance, with fears and an anxiety neurosis. After three months of treatment, purely psychologic in character, his pressure went down to 130 (diastolic 85) and remained there.

I agree with Menninger that the attempts to treat high blood pressure with a rest cure—forbidding golf, walking or work at the office—the only forms of relaxation to which they have access—are liable to cause more damage than cure.

The "Dead-Pan Generation."

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

DAILY they come—scores of letters from dismayed or indignant parents asking how these modern youngsters Get That Way.

So hard-boiled in their attitude toward life . . . so contemptuous of the things folks used to hold sacred or sinful.

'Tisn't as if the Parents, themselves, were so old or stodgy in their notions and habits. Many a Mom is young enough to be mistaken for her daughter's sister. Many a Dad shares his son's interests . . . plays as good a game of tennis . . . shakes as mean an ankle in the current dance craze. And yet—

There's an intangible gap which Mom and Dad can't bridge—an angle in the younger set's viewpoint which they can't share.

"The Dead-Pan Generation"—that's what many call these young sophisticates, and it probably describes them as well as any phrase could. Hard-boiled . . . brazenly indifferent to all the old Sacred Cows . . . yawning where their parents once shuddered or blushed . . . snickering where they once sobbed.

For heavinsake — what ails the brats?

Take, for example, those domestic beliefs which were once the foundation of our training. A Mother Is Her Child's Best Friend. Father Knows Best. There Is No Place Like Home Sweet Home. Thirty years ago, these were as revered as the Ten Commandments.

And the same attitude applies to conditions outside the home . . . unquestioning admiration of an unswerving loyalty to the Government, its methods, its heroes, its traditions—Mama, Papa and America Were Always Right in 1888, no matter how much evidence there might be against them. But today, Young America discusses its elders, its home, its country and national notions as glibly as it analyzes a new football play or dance step.

But why? Why should those things which seemed Eternal Verities in 1908, have become a yawn or a joke in 1938?

Do you really want to know, Mom and Dad? Can you take it if you're told? Then here's the truth—

Love and decency, honor and loyalty — these things have not become yawns or jokes in 1938—

BUT THE YOUNGSTERS WANT TO BE SHOWN!

They will no longer accept conditions at face value. They want to know what lies behind that face . . . they demand the right to see and discuss . . . and they refuse to come across with any emotional reaction until they know what's what.

AND THEY'RE RIGHT.

It's their life which they must live . . . it's their country which they must save . . . and they cannot possibly accept any antiquated formulas for the job. They must make their own analyses. And why not?

They have paid, and must continue to pay, a dreadful price for the pretense and hypocrisy of the past . . . for the weakness, dishonesty, cruelty, stupidity, selfishness and greed which masqueraded under pompous and pious names. The indolence and ignorance of their elders ended in a world war which sent everything crashing . . . revealing the rotten foundations of our supposedly civilized society. Whether the Younger Generation liked it or not, its childish illusions were wiped out forever. It was forced to see, with ghastly clarity, that Sentimentality hid a multitude of horrors—AND THAT ONLY THE TRUTH COULD BE TRUSTED.

That's why 20th Century Youth is the Dead-Pan Generation. That's why it won't subscribe, blindly, to such terms as Mother Love . . . God's Country . . . Home Sweet Home.

IT WANTS TO BE SHOWN—

And why shouldn't it?

Haven't we had enough bluff?

Everyday Poems

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

On Importance.

Each thing we do important is,
Believe not otherwise.
So often men have learned this truth
And learned it with surprise—
That on some simple act their whole
Lives turned, strange though it seemed.
The onward course so different
From what they planned and dreamed.

On some small incident Fate turns
Her innocents, this way
Or that; how careful all of us
Should be from day to day.

And yet how carelessly we go!
So many times we slight
The seeming "small" things of our lives
Unconscious of their might.

WORDS OF THE WISE

Self-righteousness may save from degradation but it will prevent saintliness.—Robertson.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

OLD LYME, Conn. — Today I had a long talk with Edwin P. Norwood, friend of Hugh S. Fullerton, old circus man and theatrical agent who used to pave the way for those fabulous tours taken by Maude Adams.

Norwood has been up here for years and doesn't want to live anywhere else. He has a fine home on a 50-acre tract and the house sits on the crest of a hill right in the center of his land. Perhaps you remember some of those children's books he wrote. He wrote seven, I think, in all, the most noted one being "The Other Side of the Circus." He was a close friend of the late Dexter Fellows, and for a while he did some writing for Henry Ford, notably "Ford Men and Methods."

Norwood now is what I suppose you might call the Major-Domo of the Old Lyme Art association. The summer exhibition is on now and he is there. He knows everybody and everybody knows him. If you are interested in any certain paintings he will tell you its history, and, if you like, he will arrange a meeting with any of the artists you might care to talk with.

* * *

I HAD known Old Lyme to be an important art center, but it was not until I got to talking with Norwood that I realized how singular this association is.

It has 38 members and 29 of them own homes in the community. And included in this number are names that are famous all over the art world. Their canvases hang in museums and galleries, and, perhaps in your own home if you have enough money to pay for them. Most of these artists have studios in New York, where they work for a certain period of the year. Then most of them amble to distant climes for their winters. It is during the bright New England summers that they hurry back to their studios at Old Lyme.

* * *

IT SEEMS strange to find so many important men who find time to take an active interest in the life of this small community. But consider this fact: four of them are members of the volunteer fire department. Another has been justice of the peace twice. Still another is master of the grange, and any number of them have been members of the chamber of commerce. It is this civic-mindedness that helps make Lyme one of the most compact, unique art centers in the country.

The exhibition this year is held in the association's lovely gallery. There are 273 items, including etchings, watercolors, oils, and sculpture. And the gallery doesn't owe a nickel to anybody. Furthermore, not 5 cents of WPA funds went into it. They are very proud of that fact in Old Lyme.

An interesting note is the gallery's guest register which shows that visitors from every state but one visited its exhibitions last year. The lone missing state was South Dakota. This year Norwood decided to write the governor of S. D. a letter, asking him what the trouble was and wondering when his state would see the light.

But his plans ran aground when the spring exhibition opened, for the first visitor to register was a woman—from South Dakota.

LOVE IN DANGER

By KATHRYN BEMIS

(Copyright, 1938)

CHAPTER X

"Poor young man in love with an heiress," mumbled Frank reflectively. "Interesting. what else?"

"Susie Craft has been carrying on a rapid flirtation with Bales, her mother's chauffeur," Ray went on. "Bales has something—personality—but her—"

"Needs more money," supplied Frank caustically.

"What are you trying to do—make every man I mention look like the famous Mumford pearl thief?" she asked, incensed

"Why do you think I'm working on the pearl cases? I never have intimated it, have I?"

"No," she acknowledged reluctantly.

"It's farthest from my intention to ruin any good reputation. But Mr. Roper will want to hear all that's doing in your set, Ray. Merely as a matter of business routine, you understand."

"And—was it business routine that caused you to switch off all the lights in the house—the night of Stella's dance?" she asked, in a desperate effort to get at the bottom of things.

Frank Armstrong got to his feet, his back toward her. He flung his cigaret over the rail before replying

"How—did you get that information, Ray?" he then asked, wheeling to stand squarely before her.

"Hal told me Morgan, the butler, saw you do it. He followed you to the basement. He wanted to call the police—but he confided in Hal—and Hal advised against it."

"Well, now—wasn't that white of Hal! No doubt I owe him a vote of thanks"

He laughed mirthlessly. "Wouldn't it have looked fine—an employe of a detective agency arrested for throwing the guests at a party like that into a panic!"

She thought she heard him say something under his breath that rhymed with "bell."

"If you'd been questioned by police at Stella's party—it would have been—awkward," admitted Ray seriously.

Oh, why must he leave her in doubt about so much? Why didn't he speak out plainly about whatever it was that stood between them? And she felt that so much was standing between them now.

He was maddeningly silent.

"Still—if you were innocent," she went on insistently, "innocent of anything in particular—I don't see—"

"Wait!"

He threw up his head, his nostrils dilated in alarm. "Ray! Do you smell anything?"

She sniffed quickly and sprang up beside him. "It—it's something burning!"

He grabbed her hand and they ran to the companionway, where a thin ribbon of black smoke was curling up to the deck.

"Hey!" shouted Frank. "Hey, down there!" and started down the steps but was forced back by a sudden sheet of flame shooting from the captain's cabin.

Members of the crew and frantic excursionists now came rushing from all directions. Kitty Becham fainted. Maude Welch shrieked. "The boat's on fire—we'll all be drowned!" The men guests, quite as excited as the girls, began to snatch life-belts from hooks along the deck, buckling them around whoever happened to be near them.

Frank Armstrong was the only male passenger to keep his head. He cried, "What wraps you people left in the cabins will have to go! Don't try to go down there! The fire's got too much of a start."

The fat cook poked his head from the galley into the narrow, smoke-filled passage, yelling, "Get me out! Get me out! I'm burning to death!"

Men in the boiler room managed to reach the other stairs leading to the main deck and dragged the fear-paralyzed cook with them. The old timbers of the Lily Bell were burning now with crackling glee, as if in challenge to all river water beneath them and the bucketfuls being splashed down the hatches and companionway.

Fortunately, all the passengers had left the saloon some minutes earlier and were up on deck when the fire was discovered, the men having paired off with the girl of the moment, or with second choice if their luck hadn't held.

* * *

Two old life-boats were promptly lowered and filled with panic-stricken passengers. Ray cowered in one with Frank Armstrong's arm encircling her protectingly. Stella and Hal had already gone on in the boat ahead. Ray supposed that Hal had been too dazed by fright and champagne to search for her. It would have been a distinct relief on any other occasion.

By the eerie light from the heavens, she watched with fascination the two men from the Lily Bell's crew rhythmically moving their bare sinewy arms back and forth with the heavy oars. She looked with shuddering fear into the unknown shadows cast by the dense wood they were slowly approaching. It crossed her mind that murderers and thieves work best in the inky blackness of spooky places. She shivered apprehensively and was brought back to the present by the voice of one of the seaman.

"Maybe you folks can sight a farmhouse down the road a piece. Phone to Milltown and git the bus to fetch you back to Mumford," he said in a husky drawl.

"You head through the woods 'bout half a mile 'fore you come on the main road. Too bad one of us men can't go 'long with you—but we'll have to fight to keep the Lily Bell afloat. "We'll stick by 'er till the end. Maybe we can sav'er at that."

Ray glanced apprehensively at the dense smoke pouring from the Lily Bell's stern, at the black depth of water surrounding the lifeboat, at the haunted-looking pitch blackness of the wood beyond, and wondered which she preferred. But apparently it was not to be a question of preference.

"Cold, darling?" whispered Frank.

Before she could reply, he began removing his coat.

"I really don't—" she protested.

But he pulled her arms into the sleeves and buttoned the warm tweed across her chest. She was not thinking of the balloon-like fit of the coat—only of what might be in one of its pockets. If she were again the unwilling custodian of Stella's most valuable jewelry, it was just too bad.

* * *

Big murky clouds now slid over the moon and hung there like specters of fate, shrouding the earth in a vast curtain of blankness. The foggy air was suddenly raw, cold, clammy, filled with a warning of impending danger. Ray was shaking with dread, with gloomy foreboding. Surreptitiously, her hands felt the sides of the coat she was wearing. In the right-hand outside pocket was a hard lump which must be the pearls.

She attempted a questioning glance at Frank but all faces were sketchy outlines in the ghostly light of the shrouded moon. The boat was edging now into a darkly sheltered inlet. It bumped easily into the bank and passengers began climbing out, aided by Roger Paine, the first to leap to shore.

One of the oarsmen lighted a lantern, making surrounding objects even more uncanny than before.

"Good grief! I hope we don't have to go through a swamp!" exclaimed Edna James petulantly, when her shoes sank into wet sand.

"It won't do any good to worry about that now," Howard Booker said philosophically climbing out after her.

Kitty Beacham stumbled over an oar-lock and cried, "Ou-ch! I've barked my shin! I'll have plenty to remember this night by!"

"I'll take SOHIO X-70 and get BOTH!"

"HEADS" in gasoline, according to refining engineers, are the quick-firing parts you need for fast pick-up in today's congested traffic.

"TAILS" are the powerful parts you need for long mileage on the open road.

Standard Oil's Triple-Distillation Process increases the amount of fast-acting "Heads" in SOHIO X-70 without sacrificing the long-mileage "Tails" that save you money.

That's why you can enjoy the thrilling performance of SOHIO X-70, and still reap the benefits of motoring economy.

TRIPLE-DISTILLED—to give you "HEADS" for fast pick-up . . "TAILS" for long mileage!

Over half a million Ohio motorists use SOHIO X-70 regularly. If you're not already one of them, try X-70. You'll get both "Heads" and "Tails" . . . both pick-up and mileage . . . you'll win every time!

OUTDOOR MEETINGS POPULAR WITH CLUBS

Mrs. Lester Raby Entertains Friendly Eight at Cottage; Entre Nous Has Annual Picnic; Eureka Group Has Luncheon.

WITH the warm breezes beckoning everyone to woods, park or lakeside, a number of small social clubs have taken to the outdoors for meetings. One club selected the cottage of Mrs. Lester Raby at Sugar Grove. This club, the Friendly Eight, met with Mrs. Raby, who was assisted by Mrs. Albert Cook, for a picnic supper.

After the supper games were played and prizes were awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wentz Mrs. Kemp Oswalt and Mr. Richards. Plans for another picnic to be held Aug 17 were made. Mrs. Cook and Mrs Al Fisher will be the hostesses, but the place has not yet been decided.

The annual picnic meeting of the Entre Nous club was held last night with Mrs. Howard Hannan, Olivesburg road, with dinner being served at 6:30 p. m. Mrs. Claud Phipps was chairman of the affair which was attended by 15 members.

Five hundred and bunco were played during the evening, and a luncheon was served at the close of play. Miss Callie Mengert and Mrs. Louise Pollock won the prizes. Another meeting will be held Aug. 17 and the hostesses will be named later.

Another club to hold a meeting yesterday was the Eureka Birthday when Mrs. Millie Donnan, Springmill street, entertained with a 1 p. m. luncheon Mrs. Della Stull and Miss Elizabeth Lohn, Appleton, Wis, were guests.

Garden flowers were used to decorate the table and the house. Five hundred was played in the afternoon and prizes were awarded to Mrs. G. H. Schrack, Mrs. Marie Schmitz and Mrs. Stull.

During the business meeting plans were made for a club reunion to be held at the Schrack cabin on the Millsborough road July 31. This will be a picnic supper. The next regular session will be Aug. 17 with Mrs. Rhea Bauer.

—Advice—

Indifference May Cure Husband

By VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: Would you be kind enough to give me some much needed advice? My husband, when I first met him, was rather bitter as far as women were concerned. His brother's wife ran off with another man; his best friend's wife confessed she had a child two years ago, and the girl he loved turned out to be no good.

"Jack is a salesman, and his work takes him into a number of taprooms. You know the type of men who hang around there. A number of them seemed to think it smart to warn him against marriage. I knew Jack three years, and during that time he pleaded with me again and again to marry him. I loved him, but held out because of his ideas. Finally, the day I was 21 we married. I felt I could make him happy. I felt that by being true always, and with so much love to offer, I could erase the bitterness.

Made Mistake.

"We hadn't been married two months when I knew we had made a mistake. Every kiss was a duty. Finally he got so that he never even talked—merely ate his dinner, read until he was tired, and then went to bed. If I talked at dinner it was 'Can't you wait? I can't talk and eat!' If I tried later, 'I'm reading.' If I had anything important to tell him and waited until bedtime, 'I'm dead tired and don't want to lie awake for hours.'

"I got so I was afraid to open my mouth for fear of being hurt. He spent night after night playing cards and drinking. I never ask where he had been as he hates questions. Finally we had it out. He says he thought maybe we could make a go of it, but he knew right away that he was wrong. He doesn't want to be married. He swears I am everything he ever thought he wanted, but he finds he isn't in love with me; says a man wants what he can't have. He says I am attractive, have personality and high ideals, but it's no use. His church doesn't believe in divorce, so that's out.

"HEART BROKEN."

Dear child, the fault lies in an egotistical, selfish young husband, not in you. I sincerely believe your husband is posing. In his own eyes he's the cynical man about town. He can't love any woman—not he. He gets a big kick out of torturing you by feigning indifference. He probably is sincere in thinking he's indifferent, can't love any woman, and all the rest of it, but those are the facts.

What is the answer? Don't try to please him. Why should you, a lovely young woman with "personality" be made so miserable just because a young man wants to torture you? I think you should assert that personality. As your husband doesn't believe in divorce, stay in your home. Let him be the one to leave, if any. You know he won't. It is too pleasant to have an attractive woman waiting upon him and breaking her heart because he won't deign to give a kind word, a smile or a kiss.

I don't mean to make your husband out a monster, my dear. But I do think he is "kidding" himself into this superior, cynical attitude. Do your duty by him as long as you decide to stay with him, but find some interests in life and cultivate them. Go out during the day with women friends to whom you can talk freely. During the evening occupy yourself with books, sewing, work of some kind and pay no attention to his cold indifference. My guess is that when he sees you no longer are pleading with him to notice and love you, he'll decide to stir himself to attract you and so get some attention. Please let me know how my recipe works.

Flowers should never be cut in the middle of the day or in bright sunlight, but always in the early morning or late evenings.

Slenderizing Ability of This Pattern Makes It Popular.

By MARIAN MARTIN.

Supreme in its slenderizing ability—sensibly youthful—and easy as ABC to make! No wonder you'll say it was a Red Letter Day when you saw a picture of Marian Martin's Pattern 9776. A slimming afternoon frock that's "different" witness the charming young sleeve that may have a cuff-band or a flare. The prettiest of jabots fluffs out below an unusual, button-trimmed yoke. Or you may omit the jabot and have ribbon tie-ends. The skirt flows into the most delightful flare, yet there are only three seams to stitch up. This tremendously smart pattern lends itself to a wide range of fashionable fabrics.

Pattern 9776 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards 39 inch fabric.

—Beauty—

Natural Brows Become Fashionable

By JULIET SHELBY

(Central Press Writer on Beauty)

BE YOURSELF and be beautiful. That's still our motto for this season, and maybe we are stuck with it. Anyway, we think that is what the attractive girls are striving for. So we hope you agree with us.

It is a fortunate thing for your looks that the trend toward the natural has extended to the eyebrows. For the God-given lines of your brows are a lot more flattering than any pencil mark that even the greatest artist could draw on your face. The fashion for the thinly-penciled eyebrow was never a help to a girl's looks. So take advantage of a natural beauty line and keep your brows in more or less the line that Nature intended.

This doesn't mean that you should not improve on your eyebrows just a bit to make them appear at their best. It's intelligent improvement that distinguishes the attractive woman from the plain one. So stare at yourself constructively.

Of course you don't want them to be too broad and heavy. That would never go with your feminine clothes and svelt figure. Pluck out the excess thickness to a neater, cleaner line, but avoid an exaggerated thin one. Always pull in the same direction that the hairs grow, otherwise you will be apt to have a regrowth of stubby brows.

If you have the light eyebrow problem, by all means go in for a little innocent artifice. Use an eyebrow pencil, either black or brown, according to your coloring. First brush your eyebrows toward your nose with an eyebrow brush. This may seem a little bit like rubbing yourself the wrong way but it will show you the true line of your brow. Now take your pencil and draw it from the outer end of your eyebrow toward your nose.

First Important Move.

You've made your first important move in placing your eyebrow makeup. The rest is perfectly simple. Apply a light coating of vaseline to your eyebrow brush and very gently brush them back into their normal line.

If your eyebrows stop a little short of the beauty line for your eyes, and even Dame Nature can make a mistake, elongate them by using the pencil. Always be careful not to show a definite break between the hairs and your pencil mark. That will make you look artificial and give the whole show away. Blend the coloring in carefully so that it looks like one well-shaped brow. Don't be fanciful with your pencil; make a steady, light line along the bony structure under your eyebrow. This will make your eyebrow makeup give a natural and flattering appearance.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I HESITATED for several seconds with my hand upon the kitchen door. I felt as if I simply could not endure to find Katie in a tantrum, as I was fairly sure she would be after the tray she had prepared with such care for the captain of the state troopers had been ignored.

But when I finally opened the door I could not believe my eyes and ears, for my faithful housekeeper was singing over her sink, where she was washing out her dish towels. Jim was smoking in the corner, and when he rose in respectful greeting as I came into the room, I saw the indulgent amusement in his eyes with which he usually regards his volatile wife.

"You're in good spirits, Katie," I said, banally.

Katie giggled and Jim answered with the drawl he uses when he is good-naturedly gibing at her.

"She don't rightly know whether she is standing on her head or her heels, Katie don't," her big husband said with a chuckle. "That big state trooper, he's just turned her head I reckon, praising her cooking. You'd have thought he'd never seen nothing to eat before. I've always heard cops were—"

Katie giggled again and tossed her head.

"You keep your mout for your own vittles," she said, "und keep it shut all oder times. Den you don't get into any troubles. Don't you pay any attention to him, Missis Graham. All I did vas shoost vot you tell me to do; see dot cop got sometings to eat."

"When did he get it, Katie?" I asked feebly, for I was a bit dazed with the turn of things.

"He nearly didn't get eet," she answered with another giggle. "I heard somebody coming down hall as if devil himself were after them, und I knew nobody but cops had boots dot sound like dat. So me, I qveeck got me oudt in hall und he almost knock me down he going so fast, und I say, 'Oh! Captain you going mitoudt your tray, und he look so foony, und he say, 'Do you tink I could go mitoudt your tray, only I'm in terrible hurry, und I 'fraid I ought not vait for eet."

Katie Feeds Him.

"Und den, Missis Graham, do you know vot I said?"

I did not answer her for I knew her little conversational ways, and was sure that she would answer her own purely rhetorical question.

"Me, I said," Katie swept on, "'You shoost coom in keetchen, Captain, und I haf tray ready in two shakes of leetle sheep's tail.' Und he laf, und he say, 'All right,' und he coom in and I feex heem nice place mit doileys and napkin on table und I gif him some cheeck en fricassee I had left, und did dot man eat? Und ven he got trough, he say he hadn't had a meal like dot since sum dog vos a pup, und he vanted to gif me a dollar und I vouldn't take eet."

"That was quite right, Katie," I said as she stopped for breath.

"Do you tink I not know my beesnis?" she retorted reproachfully but not disrespectfully, and rushed on, evidently not having finished her saga.

Shows Her Diploma.

"Und den he said any time I vanted any tings shoost to tell heem, und I told heem sum times I'd like to coom ofer to barracks and talk ofer deecatuff work mit him. I showed heem my diploma from the correspondence detectatuff school, und he say eet was most im-press-ive."

She rolled the syllables around her tongue with relish as she pointed to the ornate diploma, the pride of her heart, which has the place of honor in her kitchen, to the amusement of the family.

"How nice, Katie!" I said when I could control my voice, for my risibles were being sorely overstrained. "And now, I have to impose on your good nature some more."

She whirled and fixed me with eyes suddenly keen and shrewd.

"Dot means folks cooming tonight," she said. "I'll bet we in for anudder big meex-up."

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, July 22.

A DAY of conspicuous if not spectacular events is the augury based on the exciting configurations of major planets. There is sign of a sudden upheaval of far-reaching import, with new environs, interests and associates.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of spectacular importance, with sudden unheavals, devastating experiences and radical change, with the romantic, novel and dramatic holding sway and causing a complete reorientation of the life.

A child born on this day may have an emotional, nervous and highly-temperamental disposition, with its energies and genius centered on the novel, spectacular and dramatic. It is bound to figure conspicuously in the limelight.

My Neighbor Says:

Need a hurry-up meal? Combine all your left-over vegetables with a savory cream sauce. Add some grated cheese and heat. Serve the combination on mashed potatoes fashioned into cakes or pour it over crackers or toast. You can add a little left-over gravy, too, for flavor.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

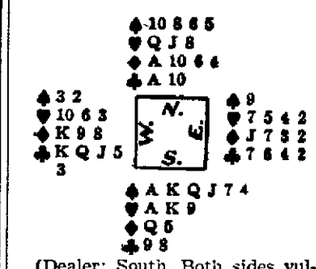
"The Authority on Authorities"

GAIN HALF A CHANCE

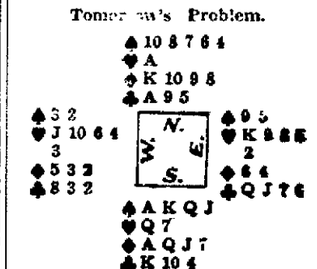
LEAD-THROWING END plays usually come pretty close to being sure things when they are built up properly. Some of them merely increase your chances of success. A number of them turn otherwise certain failure into a situation in which you have an even-money chance for success. If one opponent holds a particular card, the play succeeds; if his partner has it, your try fails. In any event, you thus give yourself some hope as an alternative to no hope.



(Dealer: South Both sides vulnerable)

Here South started the bidding with 1-Spade, North responded with 2-Spades, South 4-Spades, North 5-Diamonds, South 5-Hearts and North 6-Spades

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

What is South's best play to make 7-Spades after the lead of the heart 4?

The lead of the club K was taken with dummy's A. After two rounds of trumps, declarer ran his three heart tricks. With no finessing combination in diamonds, South figured his safest play was to allow the opponents to lead that suit to him. He therefore put West in with a club. West realized that any lead but a diamond would give South a stuff, so was forced to lead that suit. South allowed the 8 to come around to his Q. Played in that way, only one trick was lost. Declarer had nothing to lose by the play, for, if East held the K, it would have won in any event.

ICKES HITS AT ROSENDAHL ON HELIUM STAND

Secretary Charges Dirigible Expert's Not Consistent in Urging Sales.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes today accused Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, naval dirigible expert, of inconsistency in recommending that the United States sell helium supplies to Germany.

Ickes said he has not revised his position in opposing the request of Germany for sufficient supplies of the non-inflammable gas to inflate the reich's new dirigible which now is nearing completion.

Ickes blocked efforts of Dr. Hugo Eckener earlier this year to procure an export license for the gas.

Rosendahl, on returning recently from Germany, said he saw no military significance in helium exports to Germany—the issue on which Ickes blocked the export license.

Ickes was bitterly critical of Rosendahl's statements.

"After being wined and dined he comes back here and says helium has no military value," Ickes said.

Quotes From Book.

He read excerpts from Rosendahl's book, "What about the air ship," "Small wonder, then, at the high regard in which helium is held as a valuable military asset."

Ickes said he "considered it curious" that Rosendahl came home from abroad and made such a statement.

The secretary cited statements of army and navy officers in support of his contention that sale of helium to Germany would be illegal because quantities involved were of military importance. He referred to a book by the late Capt. Ernst Lehman and testimony of General Oscar Westover, chief of the army air corps, before a senate committee.

"It seems a strange thing for a naval officer to criticize the United States government for refusing to sell Germany helium and also to criticize congress for passing the law it did," Ickes said.

"Have you considered that under a law congress passed at the recent session, the U. S. navy is going to build a dirigible?"

He described helium in quantities of military importance as supplies sufficient to support an airship which could fly and drop bombs.

"I can't reconcile what he (Rosendahl) is reported as having said with what he said on other occasions," Ickes said.

TRIBE, YANKS RAINED OUT

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—The doubleheader scheduled for today between the Cleveland Indians and New York Yankees was postponed because of rain. No date was set for playoff of these games.

NOVELIST WISTER DIES

NORTH KINGSTOWN, R. I.—(AP)—Owen Wister, 78, famous novelist, died of a cerebral hemorrhage this morning at his summer home, Crowfield, in this town. He arrived there for the season on July 8 and became ill only yesterday.

COLORADO SNOW TRAPS AUTOISTS

10-Inch Fall at Pikes Peak Maroons Vacationists.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col.—(AP)—Snow and hail ranging up to 10 inches in depth blanketed the upper slopes of Pikes Peak today as a reminder of the worst summer storm in years to whip the 14,110-foot high granite mountain.

At one time more than 150 automobiles, many of the occupants in summer clothes, were marooned between Glen Cove, at the 11,000-foot level, and the summit. The mercury dropped to 32 at the top of the peak.

COUNT BOWS TO HEIRESS BABS

Agrees to Separation With Barbara Retaining Custody of Two-Year-Old Son.

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Terms of a "crown separation" between Count and Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow have been drawn up and may be signed today, International News Service learned.

The separation agreement will give Countess Barbara custody of their two-year-old son, Lance, and the freedom the American heiress desires pending receipt of a divorce in Denmark.

Only last-minute objections by the count, which are not expected, can now keep Barbara from gaining complete victory in her struggle to have her marital affairs adjusted without further publicity.

The count has bowed to Barbara's demands for a separation, and has permitted solicitors on both sides to proceed with drafting of a separation document, on condition that the agreement include a provision permitting him to see his son from time to time.

Count Court also requested the right to be consulted regarding Lance's up-bringing, but this is one of the points which has not yet been definitely settled.

RITES ARE SET

BUCYRUS—The body of Ulysses C. Wynn, 68, former Bucyrus resident, who died in Mercy hospital in Gary, Ind., Tuesday, is being sent to Bucyrus for burial in the Wynn-Jackson lot in Oakwood cemetery.

Mr. Wynn, who is a brother of Mrs. James Jackson of this city, made his home in Bucyrus 30 years ago.

SHIP APPEALS FOR AID

NEW YORK—(INS)—The S. S. Hampden, a freighter, today appealed to the coast guad by radio to take off three men, "badly burned in an explosion," from Faulkner's island and rush them to a hospital in New Haven, Conn.

COURT PLACES BOND AT $500

SHELBY—Charged with non-support of his five-year-old son, Emmet Heubarger, 37, Wednesday was bound over to the common pleas court on a $500 bond in Acting Mayor Theodore Lutz's court.

Arrested earlier this week by Patrolman Jack Coleman on an affidavit signed by his former wife, Mrs. Alma Rife, of this city, Heubarger did not enter any plea in court.

Cecil McClurg was sentenced to five days in city jail when he pleaded guilty to an assault and battery charge filed by his wife.

Paul Grassick, 327 West Fourth street, Mansfield, was fined $25 and costs on a charge of reckless and careless driving. The court suspended $15 of the fine.

HEADS ROTARY

BUCYRUS—Succeeding Charles E. Davis, who will leave next week to assume his duties as principal of South High at Lima, Rowland R. Peters was elected president of the Bucyrus Rotary club.

D. C. Baer, superintendent of Bucyrus city schools, was selected as vice president and retained his earlier election as secretary.

PROBE CLERK'S DEATH

ZANESVILLE—(INS)—Police began an investigation today into the death of Ronald F. Baker, 32, postoffice clerk. Baker was found dead in the garage at his home. Physicians said he died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

LIQUOR DEALERS OFFER 'BARGAIN'

Tell Councilmen They'll Ask Sunday Ban on 3.2 Beer If Extension's Granted.

Mansfield liquor dealers seeking an amendment to the night club "curfew" ordinance today had offered to "bargain" with city council in return for a half hour extension in closing on week days and an hour and a half on Saturdays.

A committee from the Richland County Permit Holders association, meeting with a special council committee last night said that if council would grant them the extension in closing hours—they would ask for a Sunday curfew for all establishments selling beer, including 3.2 product.

Councilman Russell D. Porch, chairman, said the committee had taken the offer under advisement. He added that a partial report probably would be submitted to council at its special session tomorrow night.

Porch said he had been informed by City Solicitor Marion D. Ward that placing a ban on the Sunday sale of 3.2 beer could not be done because the product was defined as non-intoxicating.

Porch said however, that he had asked Ward to review the statutes.

Attending the session besides Porch were Councilmen Lester D. Hunter, another member of the special committee, George Kyle and C. N. Schultz. James E. Crum, the third member of the committee was out of the city on business.

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

THE KINGFISHER

SOUTH of my home, I happened along a pool of water, enclosed almost entirely by giant willows. The stream that fed the pond was clear and flowed rapidly. Clumps of marsh grass moved slowly with the motion of the water. Frogs, frightened by my approach, jumped gracefully from the bank, their hind legs forming a diamond before they struck the water.

Beside a willow stump, upon a bed of drifted sedge, I saw a blacksnake, asleep. He did not move until I came within five feet of his strawy cot. I stood there, silently, and watched that loose-looped form, and wondered if he dreamed of danger near, or of some juicy morsel like the frog I had seen, or if perchance his fancy roamed some winding trail to seek his scaly mate.

My musings were startled by a heavy splash at the farther end of the pond, as if a stone had fallen from the overhanging willows. I scanned the widening ripples, when suddenly a kingfisher emerged with a good-sized fish held, squirming, in his long stout beak. He perched upon a dead branch near by, and gave the fish a clout against the smooth, hard wood . . . then another and another.

Then he tried to swallow his catch. It was almost too big. Such strange and agonized contortions! He finally got it down, and I drew a long breath, thinking his troubles were over. But he seemed anxious, disturbed. He looked forlorn, bedraggled, mournful . . . then terribly seasick. Even in my sympathy for his plight, I had to smile as he perched above the water and began to disgorge his food.

It was a bad business. The bones, bereft of skin, tore his throat. Remembering my own anxiety over swallowing a single fish bone, I pitied him, even while amused at his contortions.

To him it was all in the day's work. About the door of a kingfisher's home, in some creek bank, one may often see skeletons and skins of fish and reptiles.

FUNERAL SET

BUCYRUS — Funeral services will be held Friday at 3:30 p. m. at the Wise funeral home for Mrs. Myrtle Highland, 43, native of Bucyrus, who died in City hospital Tuesday following a six months' illness. Burial will be made in Oakwood cemetery.

Survivors include her husband, Lester Highland a son by a former marriage, Clarence Naufzinger, Galion; three brothers, Zeph Healy, of Bucyrus; Steve Healy of Nevada, and Virgil Healy of Chillicothe, and one sister, Mrs. Roy Stoneman, of Marion. A granddaughter also survives.

BUCYRUS — John Zahary, 21, son or Alex Zahary, 435 East Mansfield street, is in City hospital suffering with a badly lacerated face received Tuesday when his motorcycle struck a tree in North Robinson. His condition is good. The motorcycle was demolished.

TRADES COUNCIL PUTS OKAY ON SCHOOL BONDS

Votes Support for $550,000 Issue; Tabloid Tells of Needs of Schools.

The Mansfield Trades council placed its approval on the Mansfield board of education's proposed $1,000,000 building program last night and recommended that its 27 affiliated unions support the $550,000 bond issue at the Aug. 9 primary.

The school board's program was outlined to the Trades council group by Supt. W. L. Miller and W. C. Mead, board member, at a session at the council's headquarters in North Park street.

At the same time the bond issue was endorsed by the Western Avenue school P. T. A. at a meeting in the school building where J. W. Arlin, president of the school board, urged support of the plan.

Campaign At Bowman.

Supt. Miller, Arlin and A. H. Fankhauser, another board member, will take their campaign to the Bowman school P. T. A. at a session at 7:30 p. m. today.

The P. T. A. organizations in the city were distributing tabloid newspapers today, explaining the program which would provide two new junior high school buildings an addition to Senior high school and modernization of eight elementary buildings.

The tabloid paper pictures conditions in a number of the city's older school buildings, tells how the program will be financed, and points out that the building program will provide work for 250 men for a year.

The program would be financed from a $550,000 bond issue and an anticipated $450,000 PWA allocation.

Mrs. F. D. Boals, president of the P. T. A. council which was one of the first organizations to endorse the plan, today urged voters to support the bond issue and added: "If we can take 1,650 children out of buildings in which there are fire hazards, inadequate lighting and sanitary facilities, and if we can relieve the minds of parents by giving them reasonable assurance that their children will not meet with disaster in buildings crowded far beyond their capacity—then the P. T. A. council will have served its purpose."

Water Dirty But Still Drinkable, City Officer Says

If you were one of the hundreds of Mansfielders who turned on the fawcet today and got dirty water—don't be alarmed because it still is fit to drink even though it doesn't look so good.

That's the word from Douglas P. Griffin, sanitary officer in the health department, who takes regular water samples and conducts a test for purity. He said a test today showed that the city water was not contaminated, but only clouded from sediment in the mains.

Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert had the explanation for that.

He said that WPA workers on the new $75,000 Woodland water improvement had shut the supply off for nearly an hour yesterday while installing a valve at the reservoir and that when the water was turned back into the mains it loosened the sediment.

O'CONNELL WINNER

HELENA, Mont.—(AP)—Rep. Jerry J. O'Connell, victor in the first district race for the Democratic congressional nomination, held a lead of 6,293 votes today over his nearest opponent in final unofficial figures.

It's No Surprise That You're Constipated!

If constipation has you bogged down so you feel tired, sunk, all played out—it's time you asked yourself some questions!

What have you had to eat lately? Just meat, bread, eggs, potatoes? It's no surprise you're constipated! The chances are you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is what you lack, your ticket is crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. It contains the "bulk" you need plus Nature's great intestinal tonic, vitamin B_1.

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and take a new lease on life! All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Morgan Charges 'Intrigue'

Testifying before a joint congressional committee at Knoxville, Tenn., Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, deposed chairman of the three-man board of the Tennessee Valley Authority, charged that the two other directors, Harcourt A. Morgan and David E. Lilienthal, ignored his suggestions and adopted administrative policies in "secret meetings." Dr. Morgan testified that his former associates determined the authority's famed "yardstick" power program without his consent or knowledge.

PRIMARY NEAR, TEMPO QUICKENS

Political Activity Speeds Up, Bulkley Visits City Tomorrow.

Mansfield-Leland hotel, Postmaster Herman E. Homberger was informed today.

Homberger said that Bulkley is expected to arrive at 1 p. m. He will have luncheon with Richland county Democratic leaders and will meet other supporters at a reception.

The senator is not scheduled to deliver a formal address during his stop here. He will be en route from Cleveland to the southern part of the state.

Dispatches from Washington said today that Senator Bulkley and Congressman Ashbrook were among the 21 members of congress from Ohio endorsed for renomination by the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way employes, a railroad union.

Several hundred persons attended the afternoon and evening fish fry held by the Fifth Ward Democrats. The annual event was staged by Councilman Fred Miller, Deputy Sheriff Joseph Hetler and County Dog Warden William Miller.

While Richland county Democrats had apparently hit their campaign stride, the Republican organization prepared for a big meeting Aug. 3.

Glenn L. Bierly, chairman of the county Republican executive committee said that plans were being "worked out" for a rally to be held on that date.

Bierly said the county committee will set up a booth at the Richland county fair July 27 to 29 for the convenience of Republican candidates.

Davey, Sawyer Speak.

Meanwhile both Gov. Martin L. Davey and his opponent Charles Sawyer continued their attacks on each other in different parts of the state last night.

Davey at Cleveland last night was booed when he told an audience of steel workers that John L. Lewis, CIO chairman, pleaded for state intervention in the violent "little steel" strike of last summer.

The CIO repeatedly has criticized Davey's use of the Ohio National Guard in the strike zone.

The governor said Lewis called him by long distance telephone shortly before troops entered the Mahoning valley.

"Lewis said to me, 'isn't there some power that can stop the slaughter of our people?'" Davey continued. "I told him I would exercise that power.

"Mind you, the mill owners did not ask for troops. The city and county officers did. John Lewis did. Two thousand men armed with knives, guns, dynamite and clubs attempted to enter the Youngstown zone from Akron and from Pennsylvania and were stopped by state troops and sheriff's deputies."

The governor later remarked:

"I'll take my chances with the American Federation of Labor. The AFL will exist because it is an American outfit."

Boos from the audience halted the address and cries of "we're for Lewis" came from many of his listeners.

The governor asked his hecklers to "come sit up here in front or on the platform." None accepted and the governor remarked, "no guts — that's the way they generally are."

Sawyer said last night in an address at Lancaster that the Davey organization was heading for "a crack up."

"There is a lot of talk about this machine of my opponent," said Sawyer. "I am not afraid of this machine. I have the citizens of Ohio with me. And besides, this machine has been developing knocks and is getting ready to crack up."

Sawyer said three-fourths of the funds of the state division of aid for the aged for the current year already had been spent "in a mad rush to put people on the state payroll to build up a latter political battalion to defeat me."

Former State Senator James Metzenbaum of Cleveland, candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor and political foe of Davey, said in a Toledo speech that Davey's administration had "bled the state of Ohio white."

ASK PWA GRANT

ASHLAND — County commissioners have requested a PWA grant for installation of a new heating plant at the Ashland county infirmary. After a meeting in Columbus Monday of C. I. Harmon and Clarence Keener, county commissioners, with PWA authorities, a formal application was filed.

The new heating plant is estimated to cost $10,000.

FLYING BOAT SPANS OCEAN

British 'Pick-a-Back' Plane Arrives in Montreal in 20 Hours From Ireland.

minutes out of Foynes, passed over Cape Bauld, at the northern tip of Newfoundland, and headed inland without making the expected stop at Botwood, Newfoundland.

The Mercury was launched from the back of the Maia, her heavier twin, at Foynes at 2 p. m. (EST) yesterday on the first of a series of experimental flights to precede regular trans-Atlantic service to New York, to be started in 1939.

Contacts Land All of Way.

The flight was uneventful and throughout the trip the Mercury was in touch with her base at Foynes or with St. Hubert airport, 12 miles south of here.

An average speed of 145 miles an hour was maintained, and for the most part the ship flew around 7,000 feet. She came down to 5,000 feet, however, upon reaching the Canadian shores.

Through the night Skipper Donald Bennett reported at regular intervals "going well" and "flying at moderate speed below clouds."

There were head winds, fog and some rain through the first half of the trip but they caused no trouble to the trim ship, which surpassed Imperial Airways' seaplane Cambria's east-west time of 14 hours 24 minutes, made on an experimental flight last July 27.

The Cambria, however, landed at Botwood, Newfoundland, and it was not at once apparent whether the new time would be accepted as a record since the Mercury did not land there.

The four-engined plane with pilot and radio operator carried 1,000 gallons of gasoline, was capable of a maximum 210 miles an hour and had a cruising range of 4,000 miles.

DIES TODAY AT HOME NEAR CITY

George Nickolaus, 81, Victim Of Heart Attack.

George Nikolaus, 81, died unexpectedly at his home three miles north of Mansfield on the Main street road today. Death was believed due to a heart attack.

A resident of this vicinity 45 years, Mr. Nikolaus was born in Monroe county, July 15, 18857. Surviving are his wife, four sons, Lawrence, Harold and Henry of Mansfield and Arthur at home; a daughter, Louise at home, and eight grandchildren.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home. Arrangements are incomplete.

POSTERS WIN

Entries of 4 City Pupils Get Honors in Dental Contest.

Four Mansfield junior high and elementary school pupils won first and second prizes in a state-wide dental poster contest conducted recently by the Ohio Dental society, Dr. J. H. Bristor, who was in charge of the Mansfield entries, said today.

Mansfield winners in the junior high division were Betsy Cave, 27 Blymyer avenue, first prize, and Lois Curry, 70 Bushnell street, second prize. Miss Cave attends John Simpson junior high school and Miss Curry, Hedges junior high.

In the elementary school division, first prize was won by Carol Hosler, of Brinkerhoff school, and second prize by John Schwartz, a pupil in the Bowman school.

Dr. Bristor said the winners probably would receive cash prizes and their posters will be entered in a national contest in October.

TWO CHANGES

School Supplies for New Term Almost Same as Last Year.

Only two changes will be made in the school supplies needed by pupils in Mansfield public schools next term, according to Supt. W. L. Miller.

In the list of supplies for first grade pupils, two work books will be replaced with one text, "In Number Land, while second graders will use the book, "Numbers at Work" instead of "Shining Hours" which was used last year.

The supply list, which has been approved by the board of education, includes items not supplied by the board. Among the articles are work books, note books, pencils crayons spelling tablets, scissors, rulers, and mechanical drawing supplies Textbooks are free to pupils.

Complete supplies for first grade pupils will cost $1.47: second grade, $1.20; third grade, $1.73; fourth grade, $1.58; fifth grade, $3.63; sixth grade, $3 63; seventh grade, $1.30; eighth grade, $1.25, and ninth grade, $1 45.

Statistics show that rural boys and girls marry at an earlier age than those in cities

PROTECT TREES

Electric Lights Used to 'Sun' Roots of Old Oaks.

ST LOUIS—(INS)—In an effort to safeguard and prolong the lives of two 200-year-old oak trees which flank the municipal opera stage in Forest park, huge daylight type electric lights have been installed beneath the stage, casting their sun-like rays on the ground surrounding the roots of the trees Nelson C. Cunliff, director of stage and settings of the theater, explained the rays from the lamps are expected to purify the soil and keep it fresh
